With a new name, a new

Mesa Central has been many things to many people. It began as an alternative school and has evolved into a vocational technical center. It was because of this evolution that the school board felt a name change was in order. It was felt that the name should be one that would accurately reflect the purpose and nature of the school. A committee of twenty-eight students, teachers, administrators and parents was named to review all name suggestions and make a final recommendation to the board. This group included our own Duane Richins, counselor; Jean Engle, teacher; Lauren Felger, Career technician; Ron Henderson, Veronica Guzman, Sterling Threet and Isabel Nava (from Kino at the time), students; and Juanita Nelson and Donna Galvan, parents. Name-the-school forms were printed in the Mesa Tribune, the Mesagenda and school bulletins. Suggestions poured in. They ranged from Man and the Hoe School to Mesa Institute of Technology. There was a strong movement by the students and faculty at MCHS to retain the "Mesa Central" in the name. It would be expensive to completely revamp the logo and they felt that the award winning reputation that had been built would be lost. Alumni felt that the school they had attended should still be there ten years from now. The committee was receptive to this and the final choice came down to Mesa Central Vocational Technical Center and Mesa Central Vocational Technical School. The final outcome was the former. In line with the new name and concept, is the new building. It was hoped that it would be completed in time for the beginning of school but due to delays classes did not move in until second semester. Classes which occupy this new facility are construction, air conditioning, graphic arts, upholstery, body and fender, auto test and tune, small gas engines and cabinetmaking. The buildings vacated were used to alleviate inadequate and inappropriate housing of existing programs. Not only has MCVTC undergone a major facelift and a minor name change, it has also changed course. All academics and special education classes will be moved to the home schools. A student will be required to qualify for the programs offered here. It is hoped that the eventual schedule will include morning, afternoon and evening clusters which will provide more flexibility for both high school and post high school students. There are plans for additional courses and the expansion of present programs even to include a student bakery and a student store. Dr. Keith Crandell, principal, states "I feel we have the necessary ingredients to make this the finest vocational technical center in the Southwest."

Building, and a new dimension

In Appreciation Of Mrs. Brenden

On behalf of the yearbook staff, we dedicate this book to Mrs. Brenden. All of us have known her for quite some time, and you could say we have grown together in making this the best yearbook ever. This would never have been possible without her help because she always seems to have that special touch.

It has been six years now since Mrs. Brenden first started yearbook publication at Mesa Central. We all feel that she has done a spectacular job. In addition to all of the other courses she has taught, she has always found the time to help the staff with yearbook. We in turn gained so much experience just because of her. We, the staff, think the world of Mrs. Brenden and she will always be Number One in our book.

The Tony Chavez Cultural Study Group was organized for the students to learn and understand more about their culture. Mr. Chavez is a teacher at MCC who teaches Mexican Culture. With his busy schedule he is able to come twice a week to MCVTC to communicate with this group. The students in this group appreciate all his understanding and helping them out.

Mesa Central Vocational Technical Center's staff and faculty are a bunch of #@!?! not for real! Actually they are a real swell bunch. We, the students, all know that, even though some don't admit it right out. Some employees are going to leave because of the new format of the school. So we would like to extend our thanks and appreciation to them and all. We also welcome the new people that are and going to be working here, we'll "see ya 'round."

Feeling Good

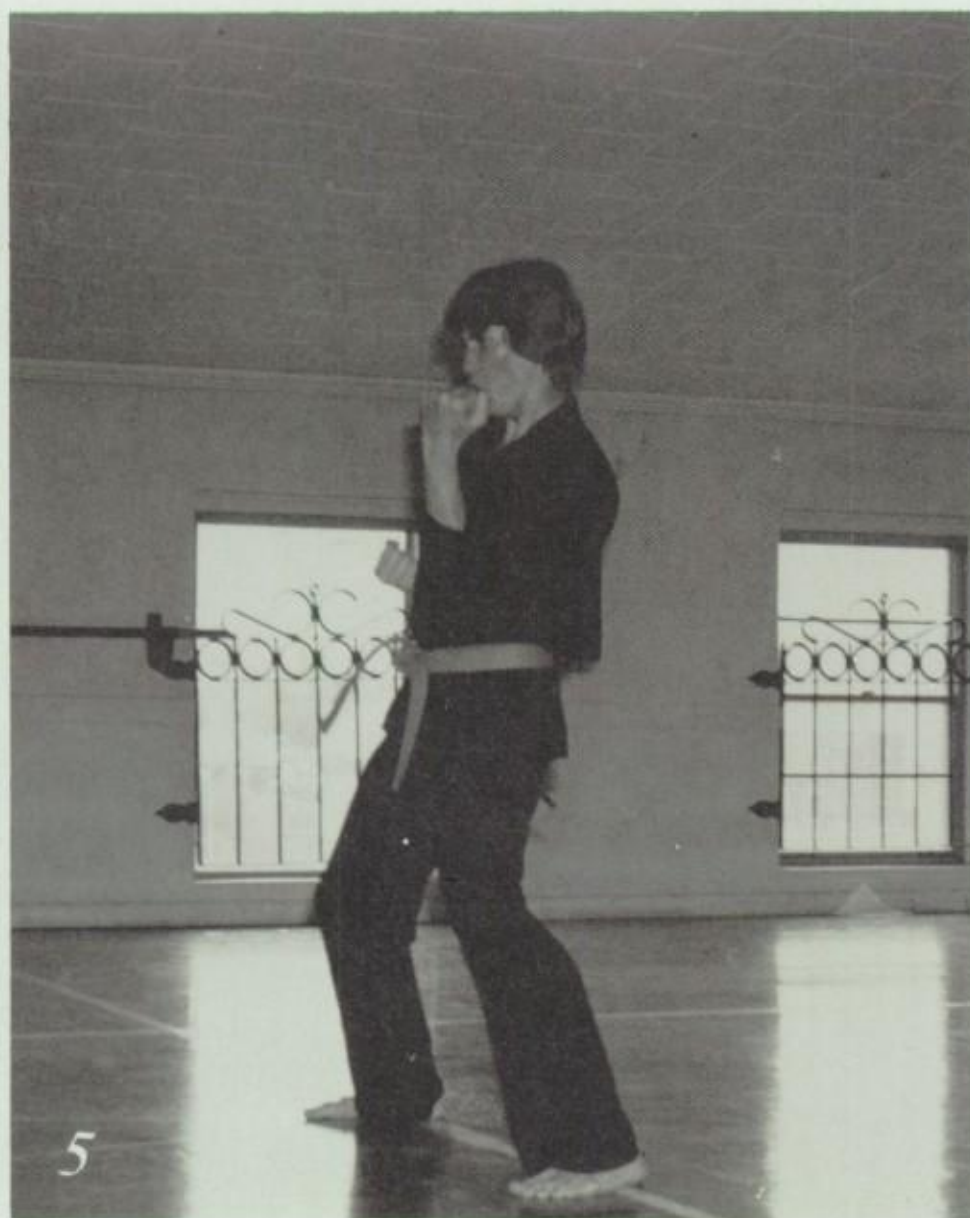

Athletics Disappear

This year the intramurals have turned out to be practically non-existent, this was caused primarily due to the lack of interest from the student body. Also, all of the team captains from last year were gone except for two. So this years athletic pages are devoted to those who still participated enthusiastically at their own expense during lunch.

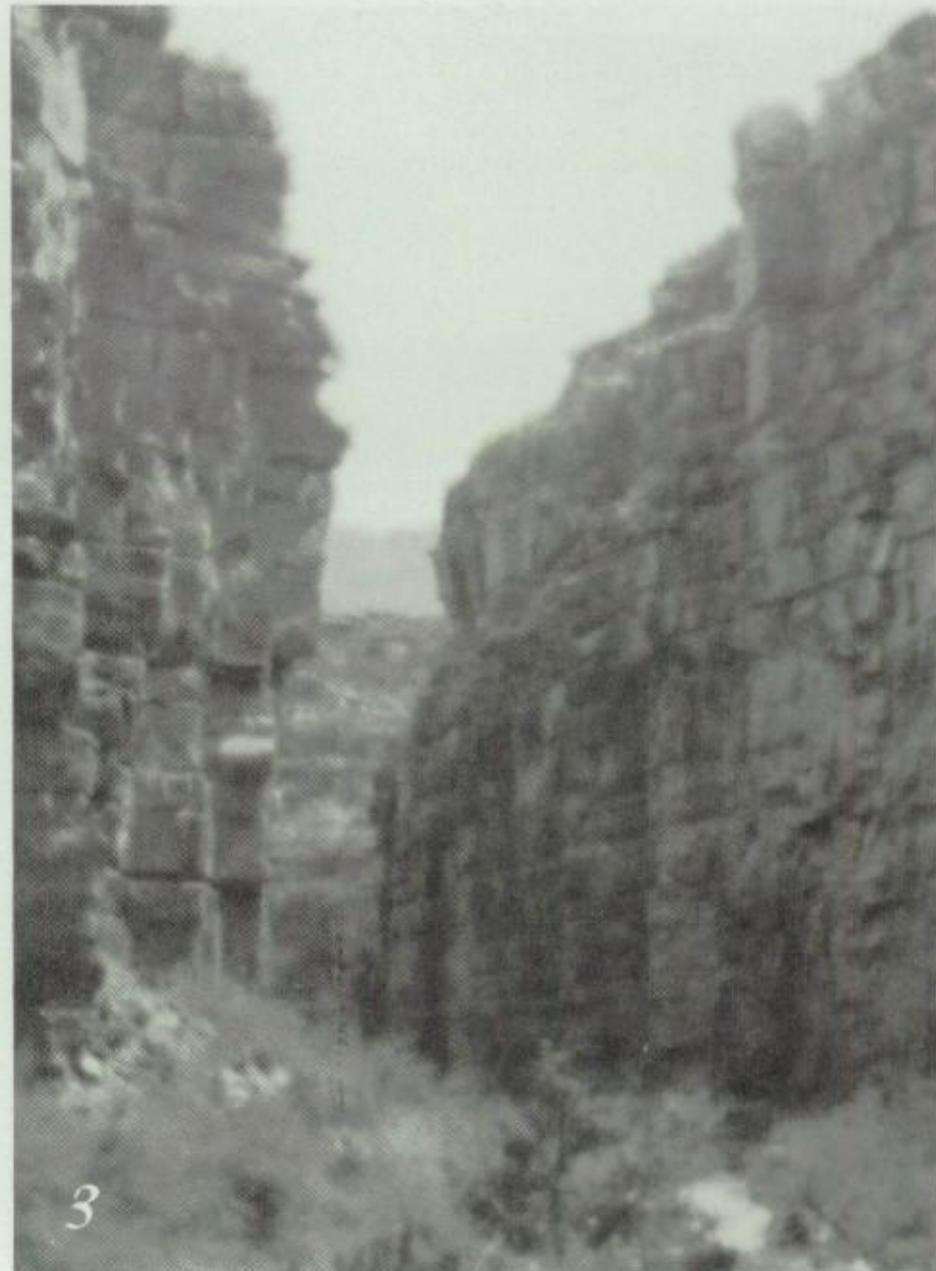

1. Alfred Diaz takes a swipe at the ball, but Steve Demary comes up with the rebound. 2. Phillip O'Neal applying a maneuver to Danny Allen during karate class. 3. Steve Demary dribbles downcourt as Lloyd Elmer runs alongside. 4. Dave Hager takes an outside shot during a lunchtime basketball game. 5. Duane Crisfield making sure that his karate is right down to perfection. 6. An unidentified student takes the defense, while Mr. Haradon watches the action from sidecourt. (Photos: 2, 4, 5-Steve Conn, 1, 3, 6-Amy Litke)

From San Diego . . .

1. A picturesque view of Moony Falls. 2. Warren Mitchell casually strolling around upon the arrival of the Havasupai VICA party. 3. The walls of an unidentified canyon. 4. The trained Pilot whale at Sea World soars out of the water to make a 20 foot jump. 5. At the seal aquarium, two seals sun themselves leisurely, while a third checks out the gulls flying low overhead to steal their food. 6. Karen Spinck telling us not to take her picture on the pier while Steve Anderson from Mountain View pushes her towards the camera. (Photos: 1, 2, 3-Teresa Maddox; 4, 5, 6-Matt Myers)

Many field trips have been scheduled during the past year here at Mesa Central, these two pages are for the people to remember the good times we had on them.

Students from Mesa Central went to the VICA Fall conference in Tuscon. Some of Mr. McBride's Oceanography class went to San Diego, California and visited Sea World and the Scripps Institute. This Spring three students will attend the Close-Up program in Washington, D.C. with Ms. Gill. Ms. Griffith took her class to Northern Arizona University, and finally, the very last trip for some students, on May 13-16 is the Havasupai trip.

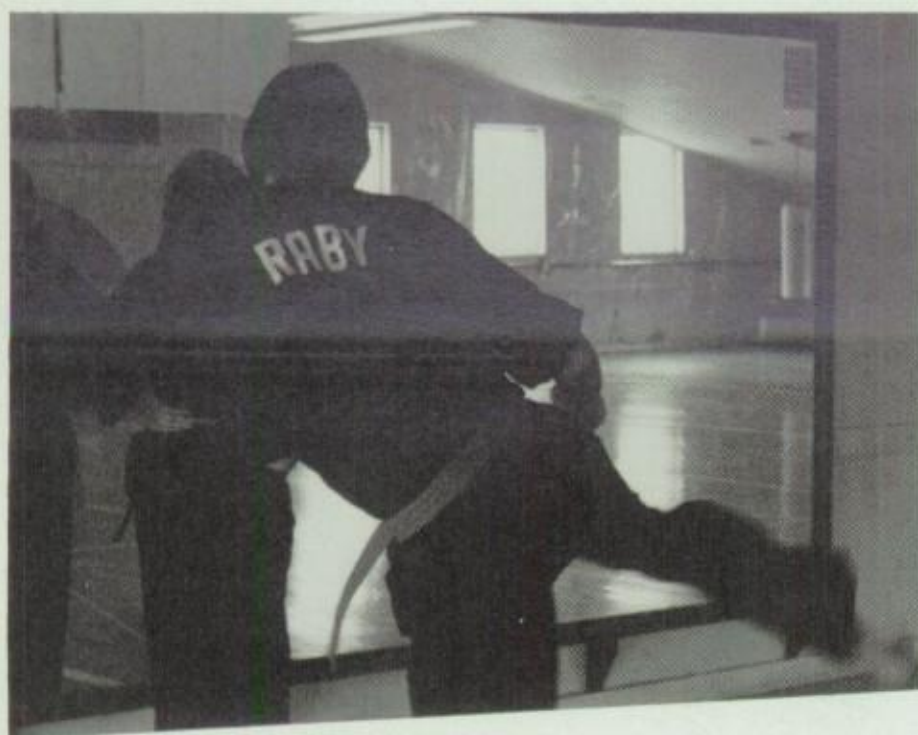

To Havasupai

Danny Settle takes an outside hook shot, while Mike Connor waits for the rebound.

Dance And Karate

P.E. Favorites

The P.E. program is "pretty neat." The newest class is dance class. For those who aren't interested in dance, there's karate and recreational P.E. If P.E. is not your thing at all, you can meet your requirements by taking substitutes like gun safety and driver's education.

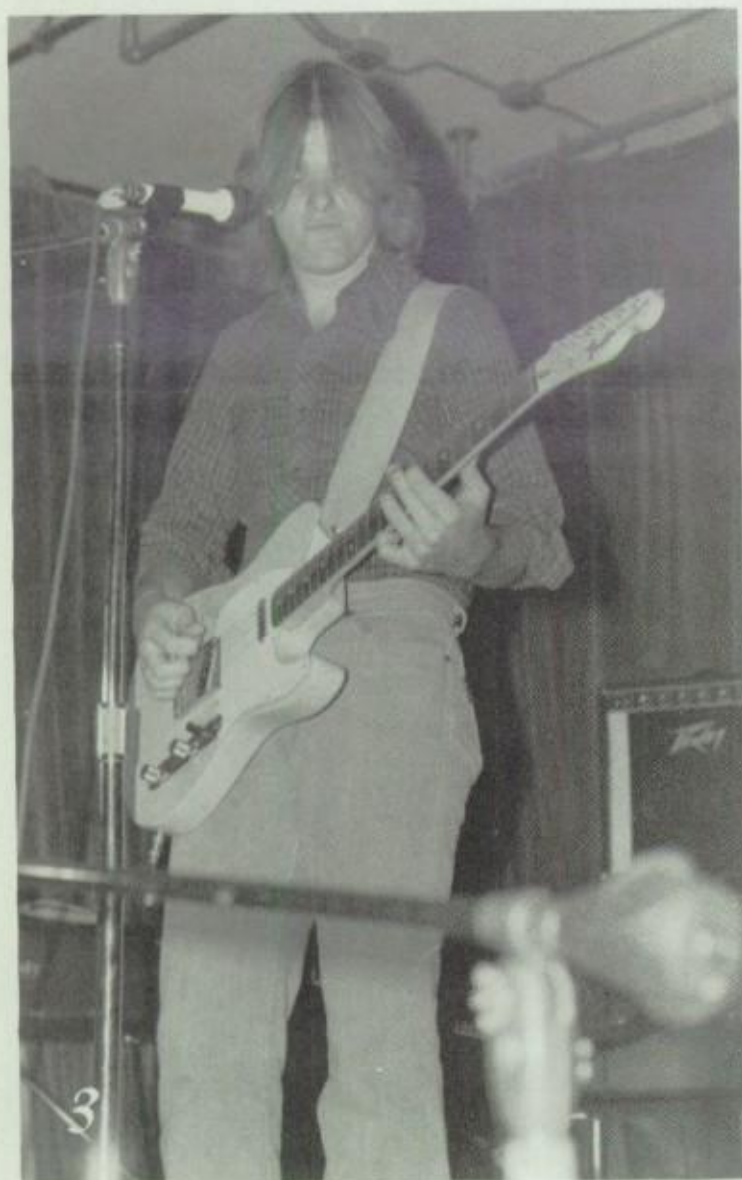

Ms. Romero was here for only first semester, subbing for Mrs. Hunsaker who was on leave. Mr. Stine taught P.E., karate and health. Mr. Dressler took over one P.E. class when Mrs. Hunsaker agreed to teach the Multicultural Studies class. Adaptive P.E. was taught by Mrs. Schroeder.

Showing Feelings Through Music

1. The The Mesa Central Jazz Ensemble jam at an assembly. Melanie Roland, Nancy Lila, Buddy Pester, Jim Lyman and Al Hernandez. 2. Steve Lamperella and Mike Buchler practice some "hot licks" in a sound proof practice room. 3. Dave Boldt plays lead guitar for The Power Trio in the talent show. 4. Ron Rouse, Eddie Walker and Tony Moore, better known as the MC Lockers, really show "More Bounce to the Ounce" in the talent show. 5. Also in the talent show, Melanie Roland and Jackie Wopat sing "Can't Live Without You." 6. Hark! Does sound person Leanne Evans hear feedback? 7. Jeff Munk smiles for the camera and Karl Preshaw keeps on practicing in guitar class. 8. The Chorus performed a Christmas program for the school. James Walker, John Konchan, Syndee Thatford, Jeff Sedivey, Robyn Taylor, Judy Cooper, Ginny Waking and Rachael Yanez. (Photos: 1,6-P. Mierkey; 2,7-Amy Litke; 3,4,5-S. Brenden; 8-Barbara Nelson.)

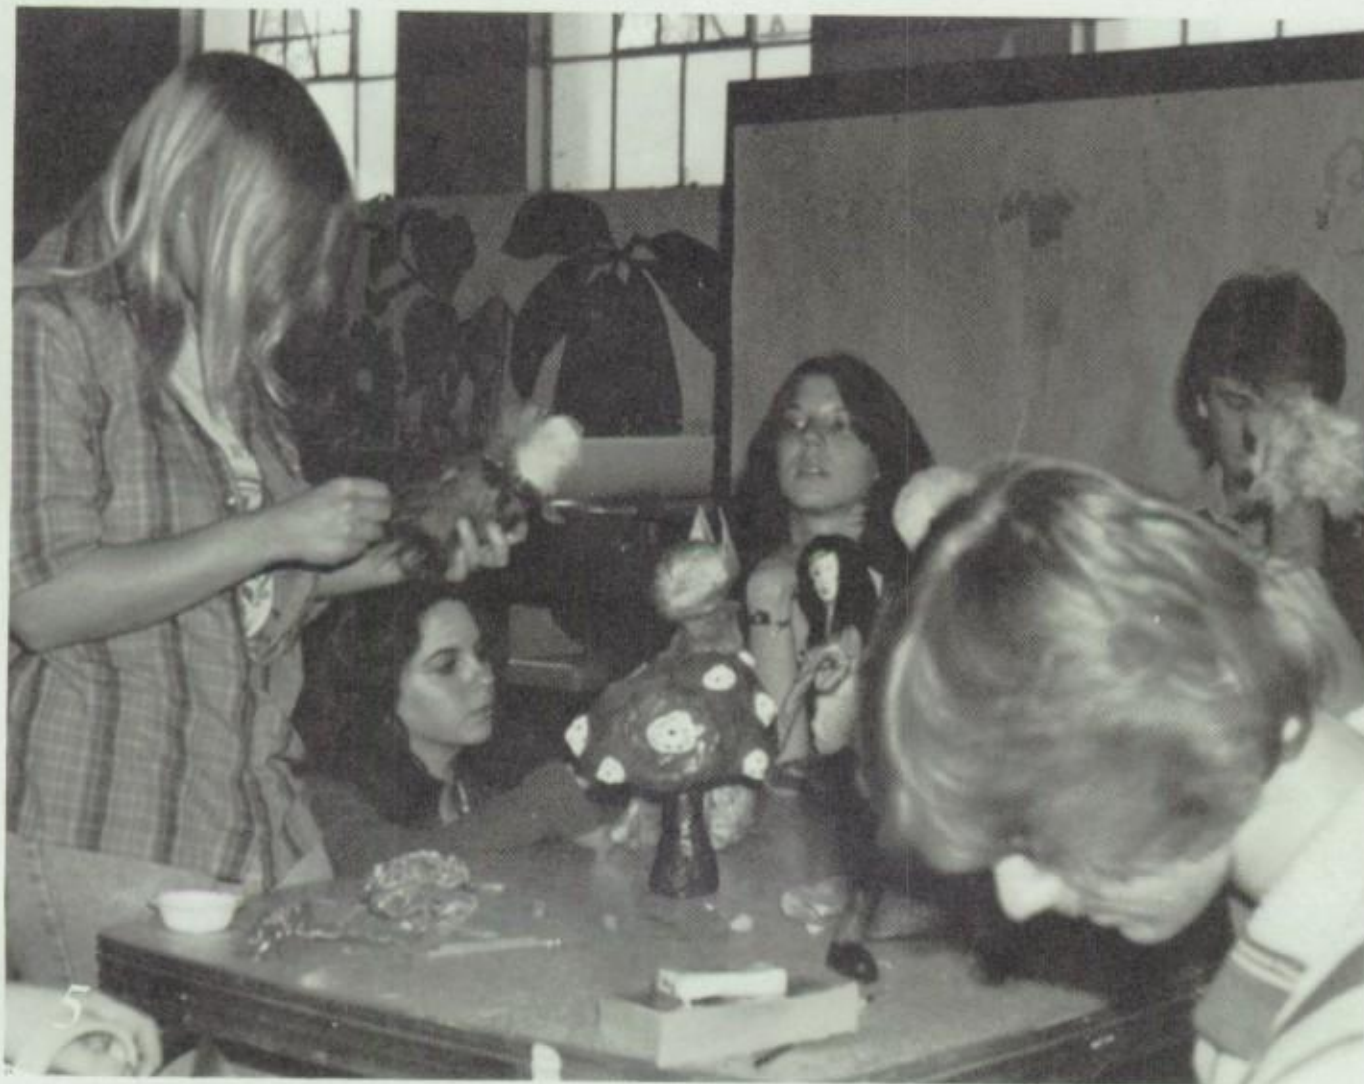

Mesa Central's music courses provide a chance for Students to express themselves through the music they make. Mr. Pat Mierkey teaches beginning and advanced guitar, electronic music, music cluster, chorus and (everyone's favorite) JazzRock Ensemble. The ensemble and chorus perform at such places as the State Fair, elementary schools, shopping malls and assemblies for our students. They play and sing a variety of songs and everyone seems to enjoy them.

This year, the Talent Show was a big success, especially for Darin Burns, who put it together. The Spring Talent Show was organized by Mrs. Pat Clement and Darin. They even got faculty members on stage!

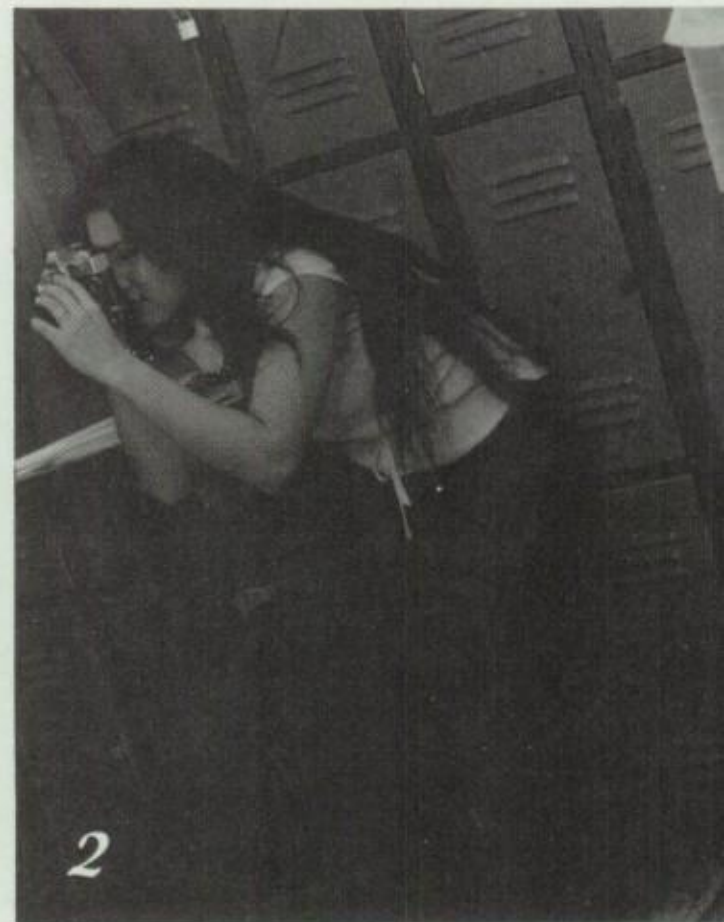

The art classes here at MCVTC have always been favorite electives. They will not be offered next year unless an adequate enrollment is met. If that becomes the case, we will miss Mrs. Zimmerman and Mr. Smith a whole lot. Students have many opportunities to enter their work into art shows and many of our students have won top prizes in these shows.

That's Using Your Head . . . And Hands

1. Brian Pullin sure can glaze it up! 2. The heat is on as Mark Acton attempts to solder his jewelry piece. 3. Are Nick Contreras and Ken Sweat taking Mrs. Zimmerman's suggestions into consideration?! 4. Val Kramer and Denise Barry try to work on lost-wax-casting under these cluttered conditions. 5. Holly Jo Baker, Colleen Layeux, Susan Saunders, Tony Isabel, and Tom Gose are busy paper-mache-ing self portraits. 6. J.D. King prepares to wedge his clay to "throw" it on a wheel. 7. "Hey Dawn Drees, can you see what you're doing?!" 8. Christy Peterson and Alex King aren't laughing at Mr. Smith's jokes. (What else is new?!) (Photos: 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8 - Amy Litke; 5- Steve Conn).

(Click!) Got It!

Ken Sweat is a senior planning to attend either Arizona State University or the University of Colorado after graduation. He'd like to major in photography and minor in business. Ken is aiming his career towards commercial or free lance photography. He's won numerous awards including a Purple Ribbon—Exceptional Merit Award at the 1981 Arizona State Fair. The photo was displayed in the office for several days; hope you saw it. Right now, Ken does most of his photography work for school, friends and family without profitting from it. Hopefully, some day he'll be a famous photographer making big bucks. Good luck, Ken!

1. Sharon Patzke supervises while Dana Hardin makes up Sheri Lewis' face for her modeling debut. 4. Dave Reid's mind is far away as he poses for photographer Sally Renteria (2). 5. Brenda Dutchover exposes her roll of film to make sure none of her pictures of Sheri come out. Students in the Commercial Photography class designed the studio to get the feel of a professional atmosphere. (Photos: 1,3,5-Amy Litke; 2,4-Sharon Patzke.)

This year T.V. Production students were very creative. Instead of doing commercials, like the last few years, Mr. Roe thought it would be fun to do "moments of meditation." Students take a "moment" and fantasize a situation and then write a script about it. The scripts were then typed on dittos, duplicated and acted out. When the action was perfected it was then filmed. After the filming, the class watched the tape and critiqued the production. Then the tape was usually erased so another production could be filmed, as the tape supply is limited. Only the very best ones are saved. Although this course does not give English credit, it is a part of the English Department. In addition to this course, there are all the required courses like Principles of English I and II, Literary Exploration, etc. There is a special reading class for students who need to improve their reading and also an advanced reading class. There are also special education English classes.

With the new format of the school, that of a vocational center, most if not all of the academics will be moved back to the home schools. Next year there will be only those courses required by those seniors who choose to remain here full-time. If there is enough interest, T.V. Production may remain as a vocational course.

New Course Subs For Free Enterprise

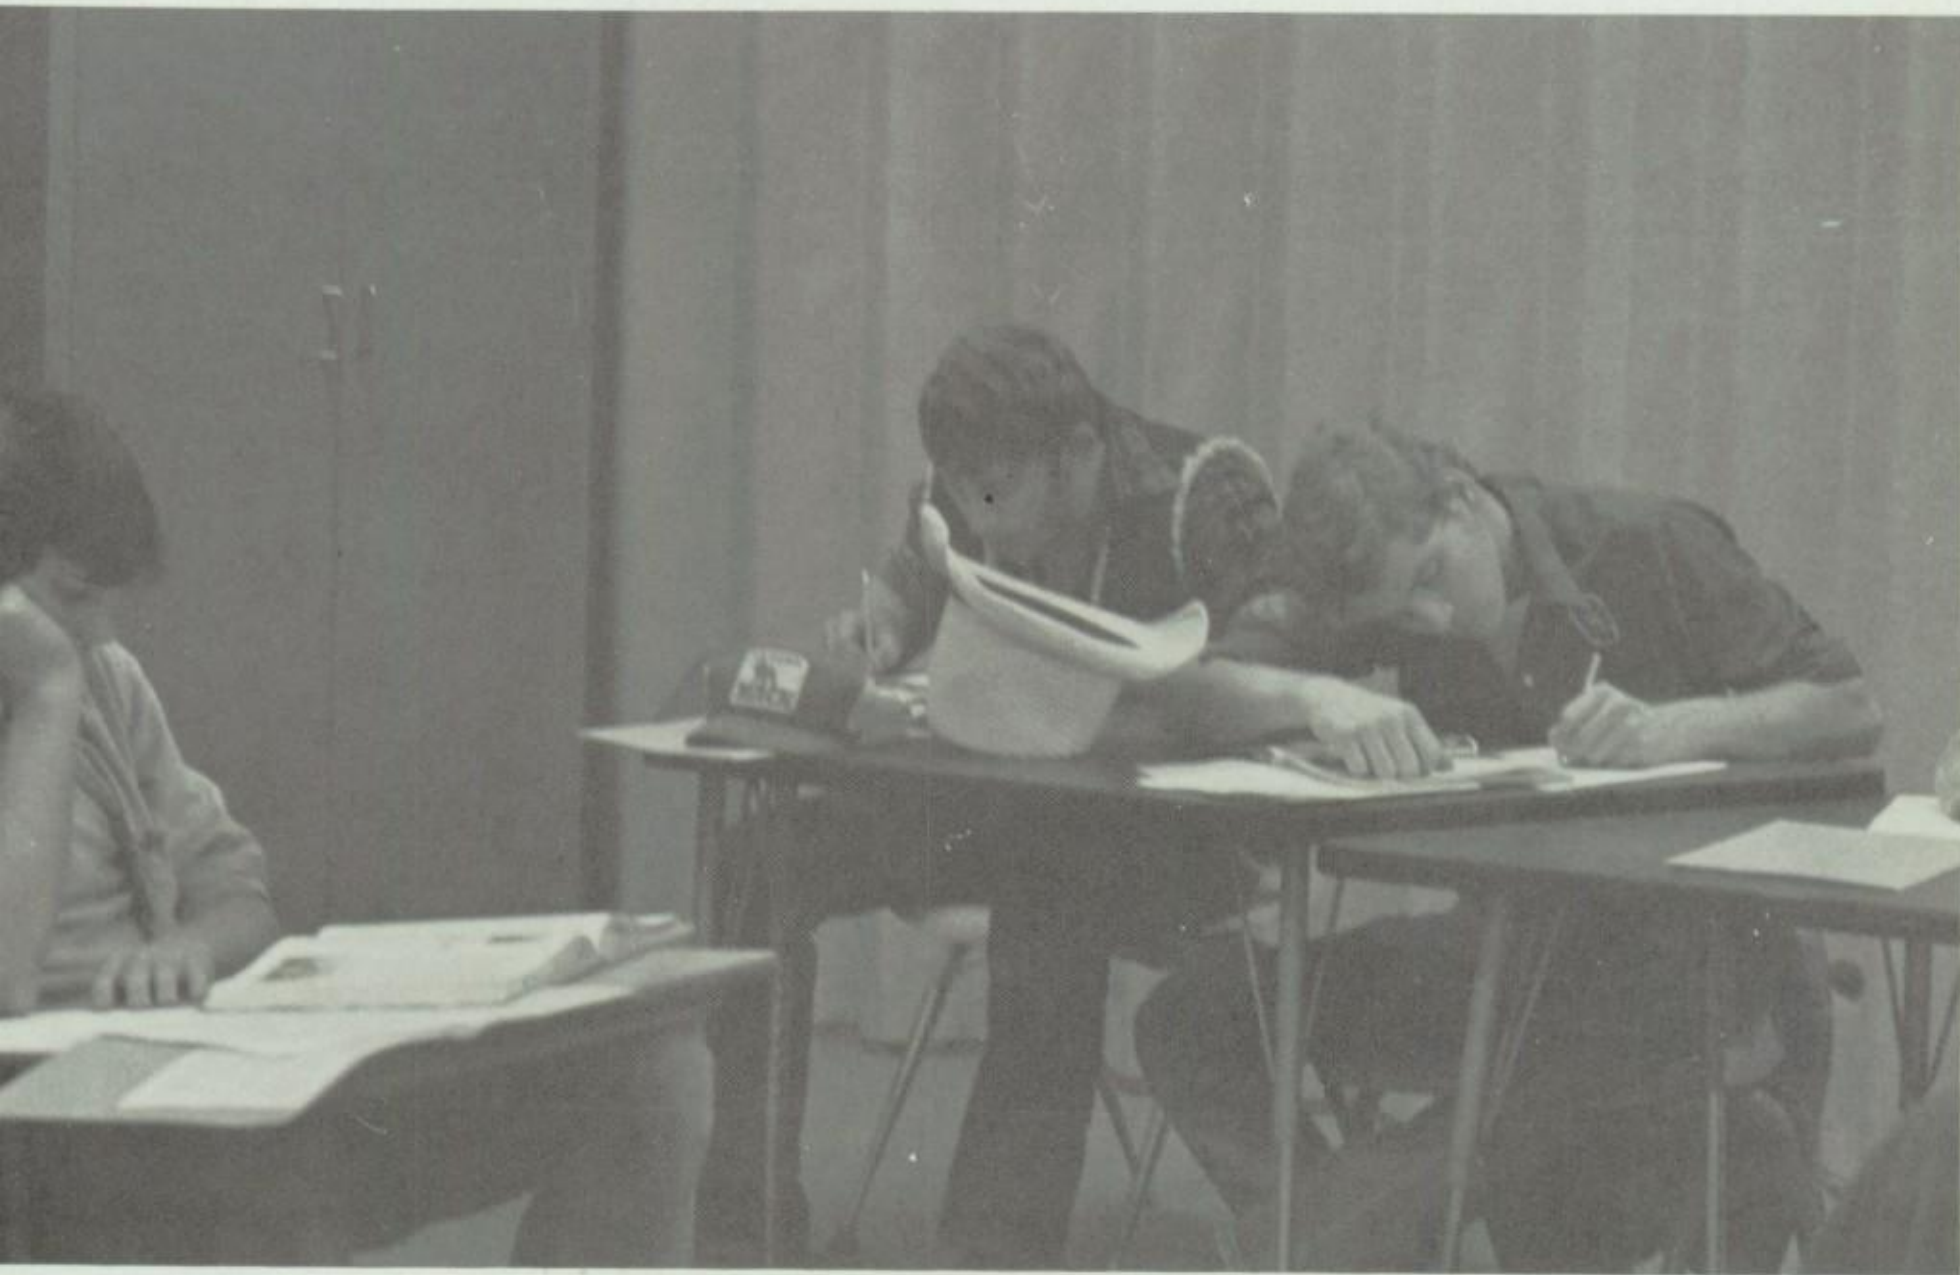

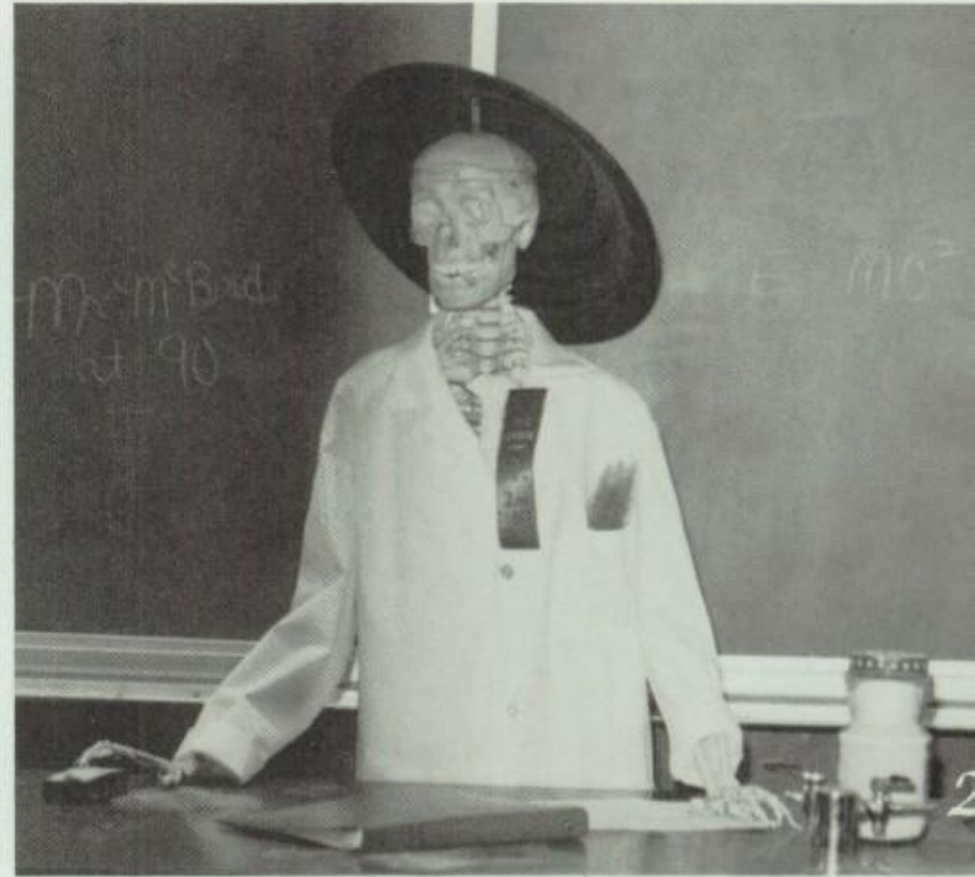

1. Dennis Bunch, David Willis, David Pohl and Charles St. George get ready to watch a videotape in Ms. Gill's seventh hour class while Ms. Gill prepares to take roll. 2. Phil Erickson mulling over his Christmas project in Ms. Marsom's class. 3. Leticia Gonzales sorts through some Christmas cards for a project while Tommy Simpson peeks around the partition to get noticed. 4. Staci Ferguson and Collen Layeux discussing a book on business. In the background Bryan Marsh and Margaret Torres try to look busy for the camera. 5. Mark Simons looks pleased with the painting he has done in Ms. Marsom's class. 6. Phil Aubuchon, Mike Wasilewski, and Danny Settle laboriously try to finish their assignments in Ms. Gill's class. (Photos: 1-Steve Conn; 2,3,4,5,6-S. Brenden)

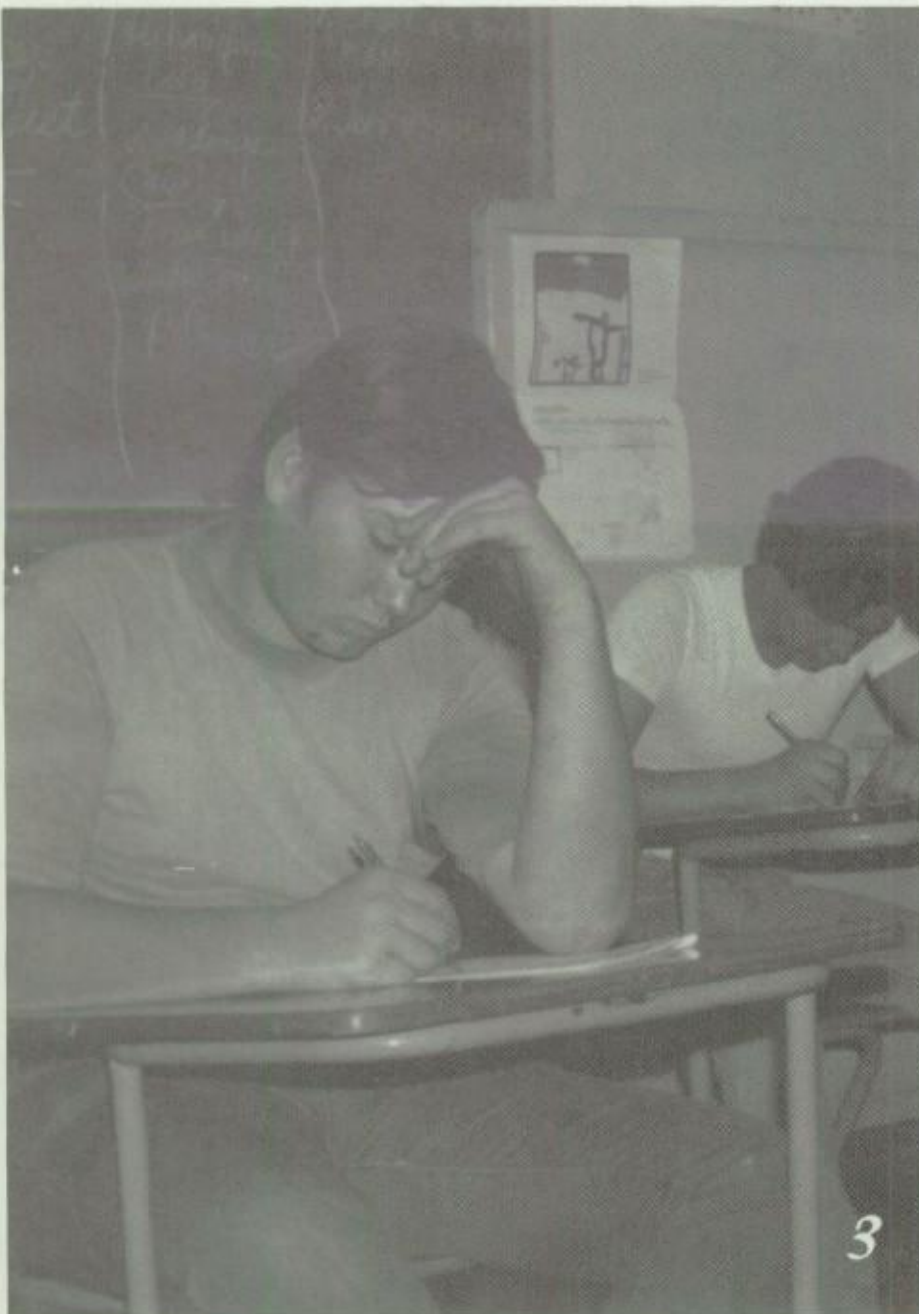

Several students decided to complete their Free Enterprise credit by taking "Starting Your Own Small Business". This course is just the beginning of a merchandising cluster which is being developed.

It was taught first hour by Ms. Sharon Cuculic and substituted for Free Enterprise credit. Other social studies classes were fewer in number as the beginning of the phasing out of academics on this campus. Next year there will be only enough academics to accomodate the seniors.

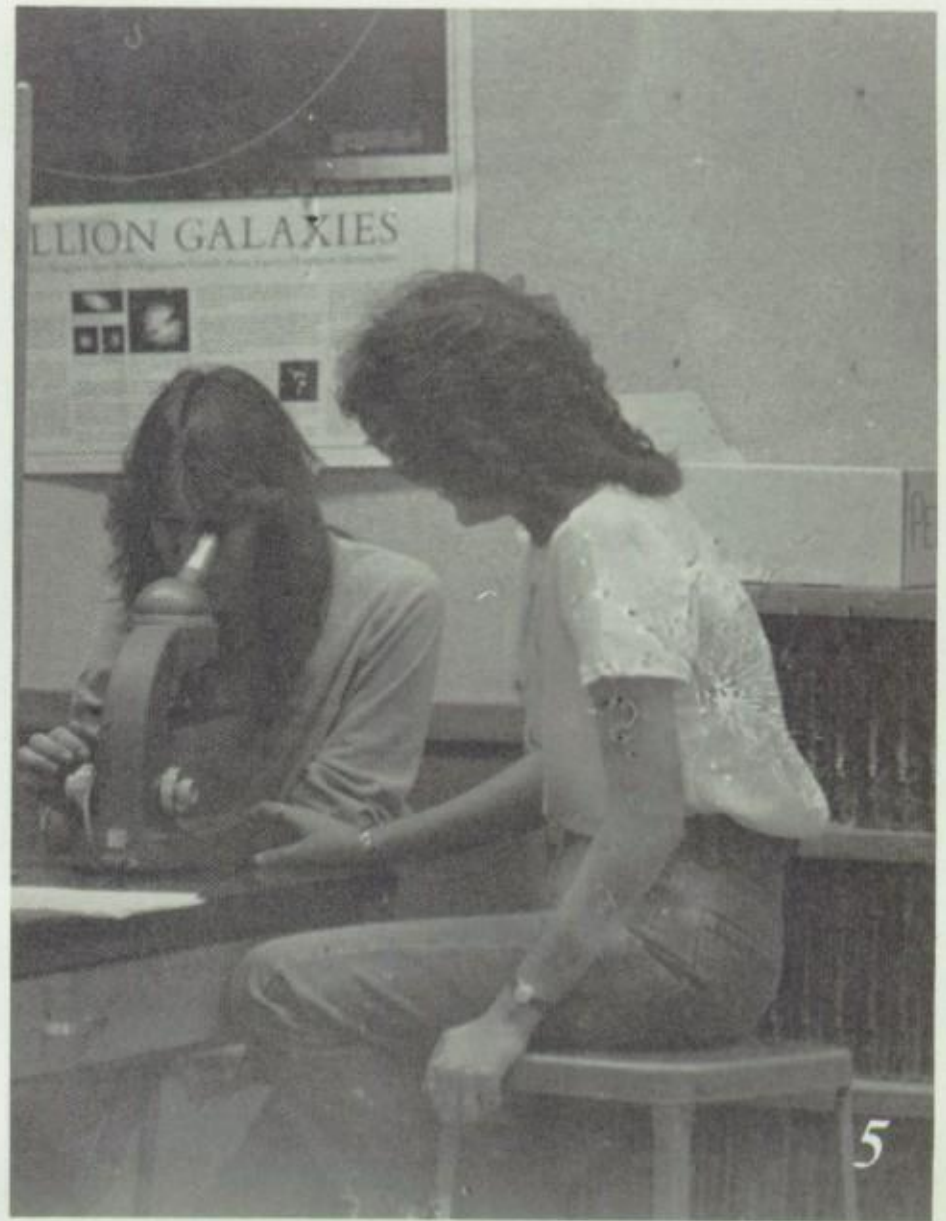

Field Trips Spark Scientific

1. Miss Beck helps Tom Nerby with his math assignments. 2. Mr. McBride at 90 yrs. Mr. McBride's outlook on life is $E=MC^2$; let's face it he'll never stop teaching. 3. Mike Fithian and Mitch Cates demonstrate good study habits and faithfully get their work done in their math class. 4. Brenda McDaniel studies hard and works fast to finish her math packet before the end of the semester. 5. Teri Ferguson keeps an eye on the specimen while Chez Sinclair looks on eagerly waiting her turn. 6. Mr. McBride's Science classes gather on a field trip to Sycamore Creek, while Sgt. Nicewander and Private Mayourner show some survival tactics. (Photos: 1,3,4,5-Steve Conn; 2-Amy Litke; 6, R. McBride.)

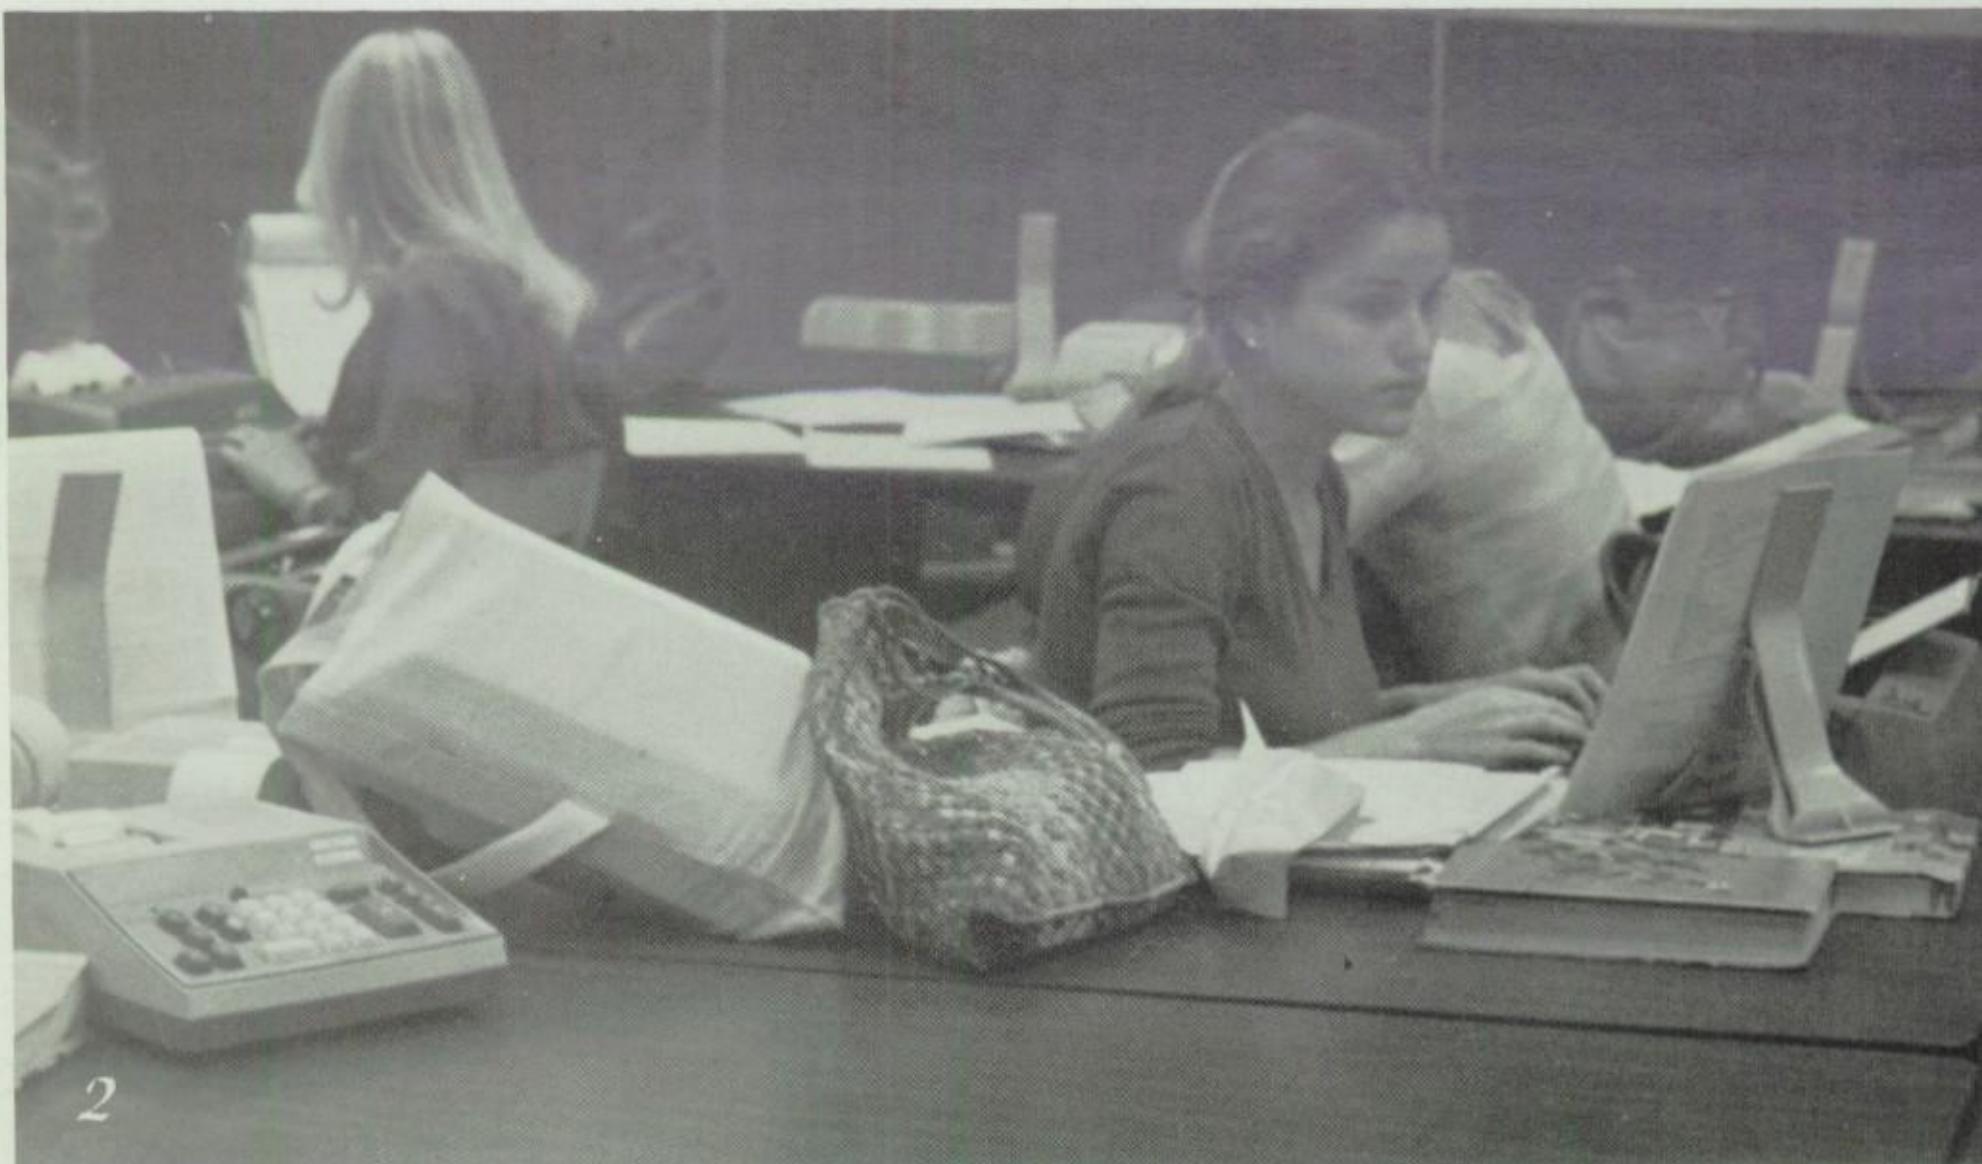

Interest

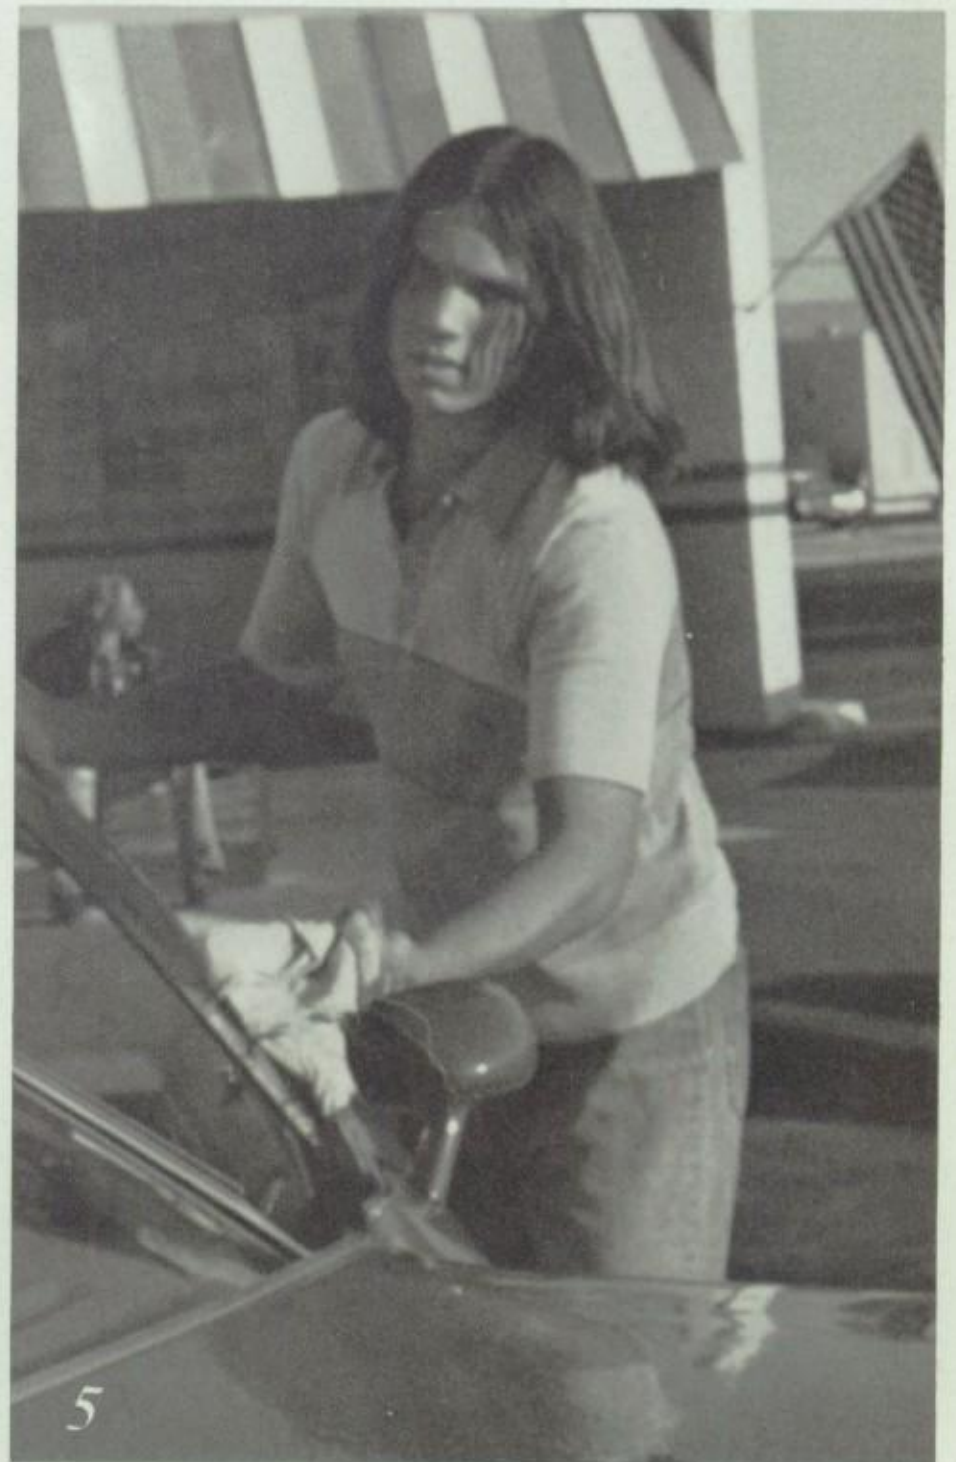

Learning —

The Business Department here at Mesa Central is designed so that each individual can get the most of their class. The courses are taught by Ms. Cavender. She helps you understand and learn as much as possible so that once you are out of high school you are able to use your skills.

As a senior you have the choice of substituting class work for OJT (On The Job Training) or D.O. (Diversified Occupations). When you take OJT or D.O. you go to class one hour a day and work an average of fifteen hours a week. In this course you learn skills and get work experience. OJT is taught by Mr. Vasquez and D.O. is taught by Ms. Engle.

To Work

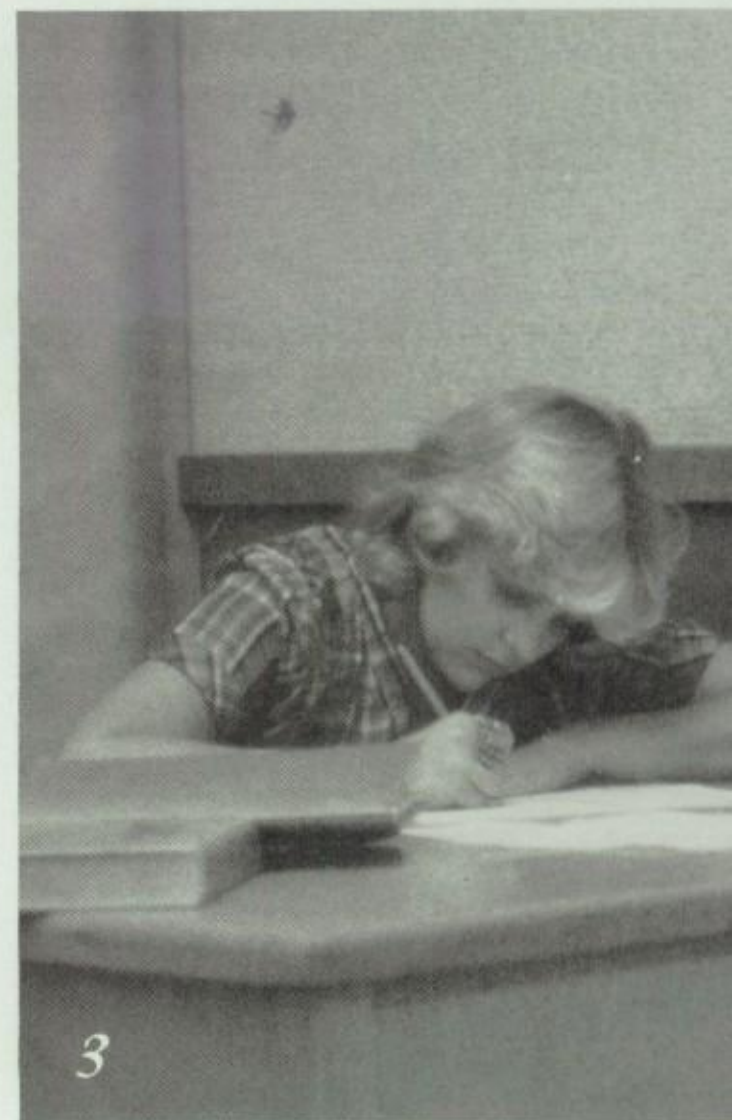

1. Ron Rouse and Regina Arbuckle try their hand at the mimeograph machine in Mrs. Cavender's business class. 2. Dana Hardin diligently works at completing her typing project. 3. Jose Rodriguez empties Ms. Gill's waste basket as he tries to escape the photographer. Jose works with the custodians after school as part of his OJT course requirement. 4. Jaime Sanchez cleans the dash before driving the car to the wash and wax area. 5. Matt Myers quickly dries the car after it's been washed. He and Jaime both work for All American Car Wash as part of their D.O. credit. 6. Sherri Shires, Greg Scott, Robyn Eastman, Kelly West and Joyce Wagner enjoy an afternoon at Pioneer Park at the Region III VICA picnic. (Photos: 1-Steve Conn; 2, 3, 4, 5-S. Brenden, 6-Matt Myers.)

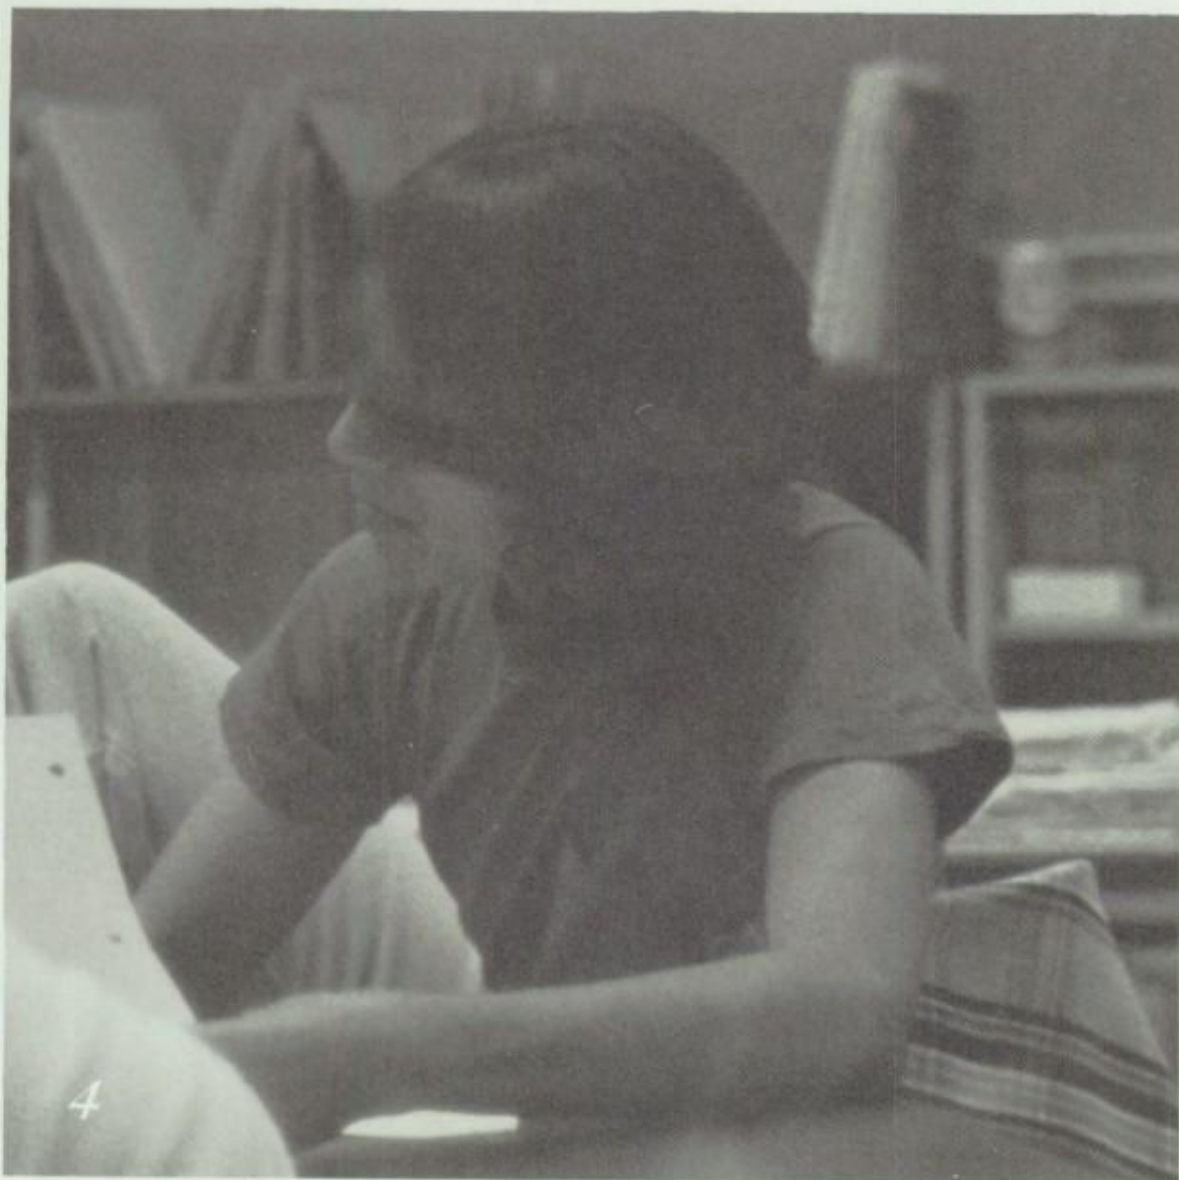

1. Allen Pilard using the press in Mr. Soricone's class. 2. Dana Hardin looks like she's really getting into her work. 3. Angie Adams seems hard at work on a newspaper story for Ms. Gill. 4. Kevin Hayes intently listening at the first newspaper meeting. 5. Syndee Thatford, Matt Myers, and Ms. Gill looking over some poems by Aaron Shoaf. Graphic Arts Prints Newspaper

The Graphic Arts classes are a few of the vocational courses that will be offered. Students learn the skills and techniques of layout & pasteup, stripping and platemaking, process camera and offset press work. The VICA club involvement is part of regular classwork. The A.M. Graphic Arts is for advanced students and the P.M. is the beginning Graphic Arts.

Mesa Central's newspaper staff was just any student who contributed an article, students could talk to Ms. Gill during her prep period about submitting articles. The newspaper was printed by the Graphic Arts class.

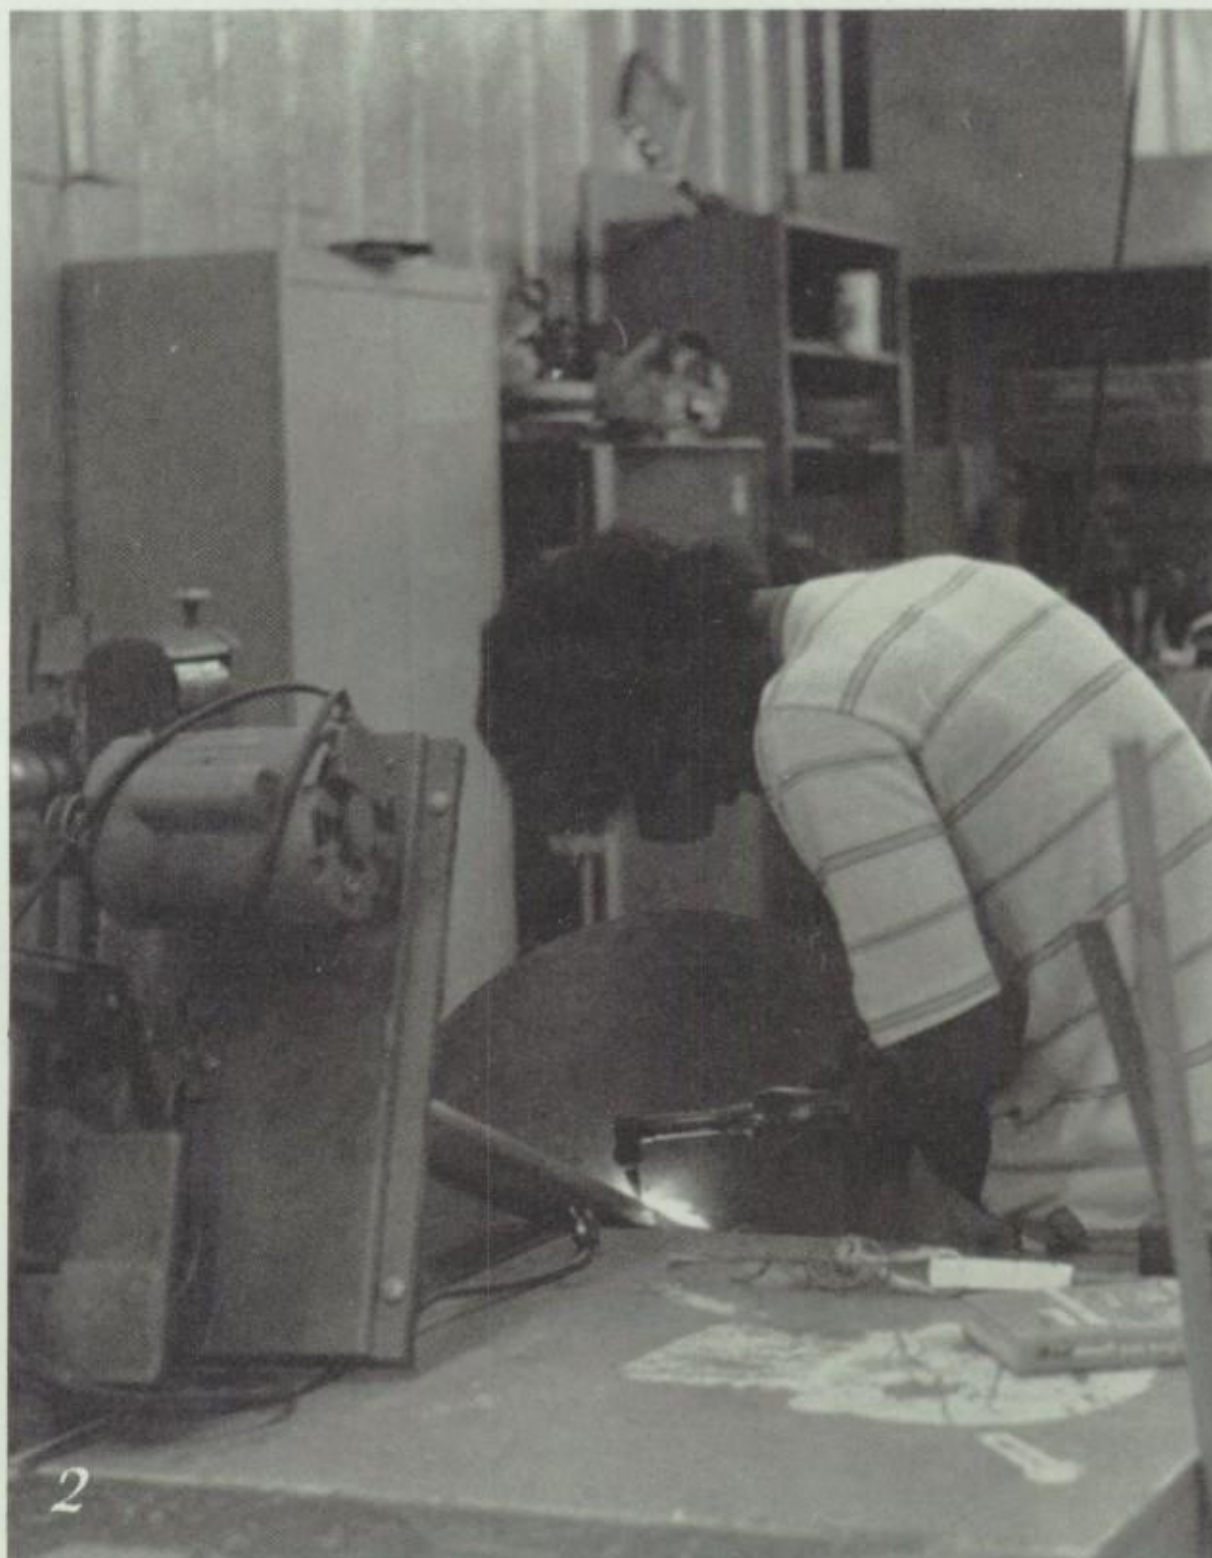

Flying sparks can mean many different things depending on when, where and under what conditions they fly. In welding for instance, sparks mean that you're working, and if you are not wearing safety goggles, you're likely to damage your eyes. In electricity, a spark could mean a short circuit or just a live wire. In either case, you must know what you're doing so you don't electrocute yourself or ruin what you're working on.

Mr. Hennigan teaches both beginning and advanced welding. His classes didn't move to the new building because his present facility is still good and because his new room is scheduled to be in the next phase of building. Mr. Scott teaches electricity, air conditioning, appliance repair and construction, and if you make him angry, you can really see sparks fly!

Sparks Fly!

1. Marvin Coker muscles the pipe cutter into action as Mr. Harry Scott supervises. 2. Rodney Allen welds the stand on a belt sander. 3. Mr. Harry Scott explains how a thermostat controls the temperature. It's really quite complicated! 4. Mike Babbitt brushes slag from the bead after welding. John Hiesel glances over as he walks by. Construction Class Does Much Off-Campus Work

1. Tony Gehron, Robert Owens and Richard Gohl are sorting nails, just one of the many things involved in getting organized. 2. Terry Tryon and Mr. Bartle are putting the finishing touches on a wooden chair. 3. Buddy Pester cuts a pipe for a new water line. 4. Mr. Scott is explaining to Tony Isabel where and how the faucet is to be completed. 5. Kevin Harvey and Donnie Slaven sand down a woodworking's table to keep working surfaces in good condition. 6. Lenny Rechar digs up a pipeline for repair. 7. Miss Luca shows potential construction students the facilities of the new building. (Photos: 1-Benny Tashquith 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7,-Steve Conn.)

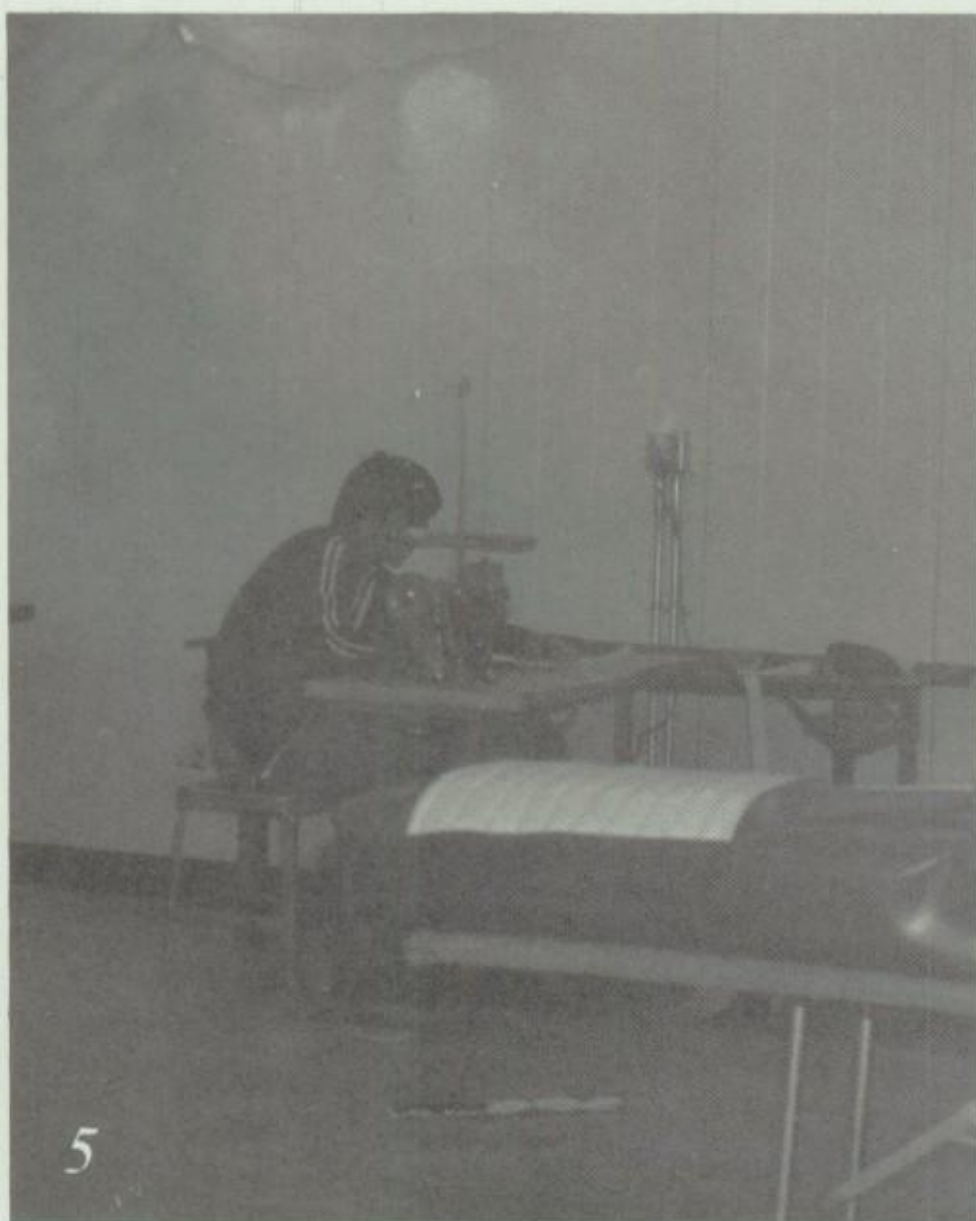

Challenged,

Upholstery and Auto Body & Fender are challenging classes. They keep students pretty busy and teach them a lot which helps in future careers. When a student enters these classes, he/she must be prepared to accept the work. In return the student learns trades that can pay good money and offer good job security.

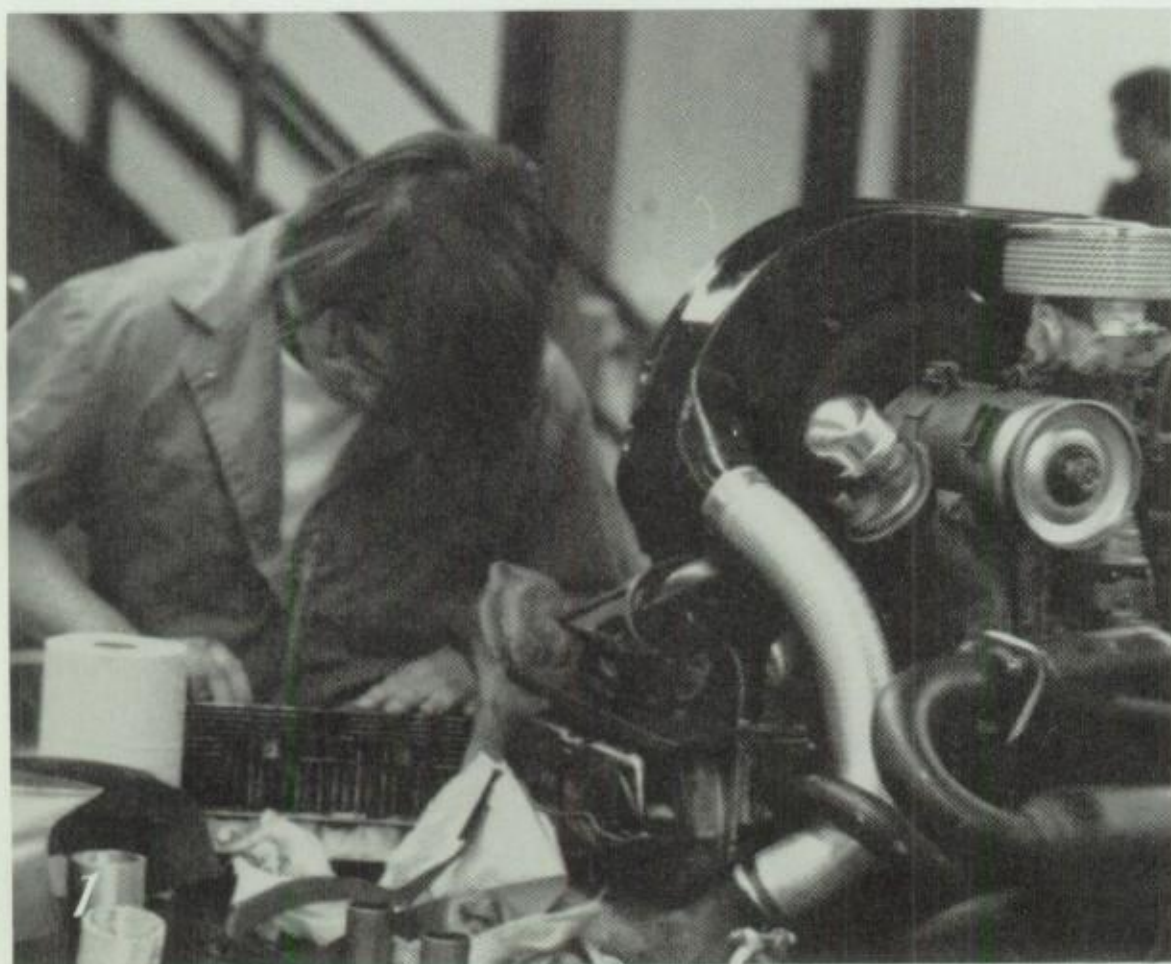

Auto Upholstery is taught by Mr. Ned Lisonbee and has been for 8 years. Second semester, Ms. Karen Hatton came from ASU to do her student teaching here. Mr. John Louis, formerly of Westwood, joined Mesa Central's staff this year as the Auto Body & Fender teacher. Although the move to the new building meant better facilities, it also meant a loss of work time as it took several weeks to get all the equipment moved and operable.

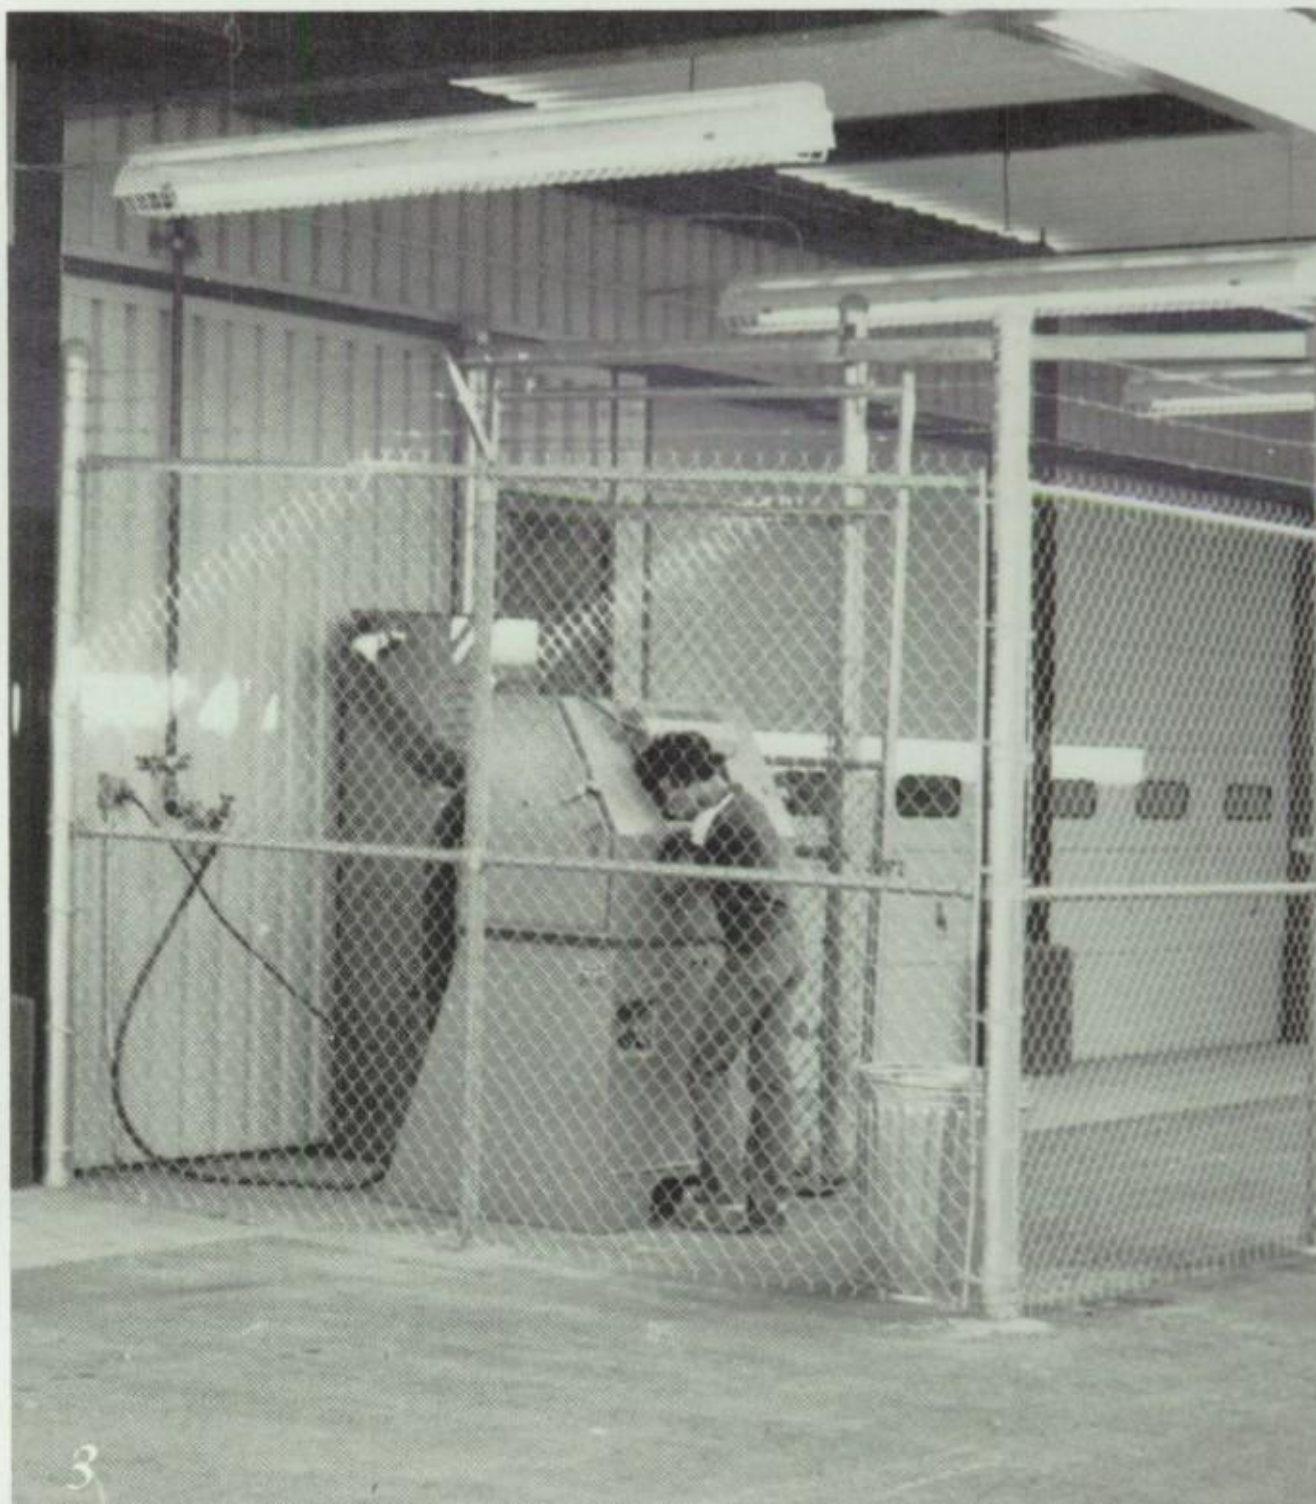

Students Prepare For Careers

1. Sherri Blomburg and Becky Brogdon, the only girls in the class, practice the different stitches used in upholstery. 2. Brett Porter prepares his truck for the paint booth by doing fine sanding. 3. Steve Conn takes time out from yearbook to work in his upholstery class. 4. Shawn Smith spreads bondo on his Datsun pickup. 5. Curtis Jenkins keeps busy as he sews together portions of a friends car seat. 6. Don Clark pounds out a dented fender of a Mustang. (Photos: 1, 2, 4, 5, 6-Steve Conn; 3-Sherri Blomberg)

Auto Tune-up and Engine Overhaul are two of the classes in automotive training. These classes teach the students to master their automobiles and keep 'em running. The instructor for tune-up is Mr. Fred Duke, who along with Mr. Freeman Stewart and Mr. Chuck Adair have taught here since Mesa Central was founded. Mr. Stewart teaches engine overhaul. He keeps busy showing the students how to produce the best rebuilt parts with the machinery they have. Mr. Adair instructs small gas engines. The students build and repair engines from lawnmower and Volkswagens. With the experience of the instructors and the excellent equipment, an engine doesn't stand a chance at Central.

Keep 'Em Running, And Get Credit Too!

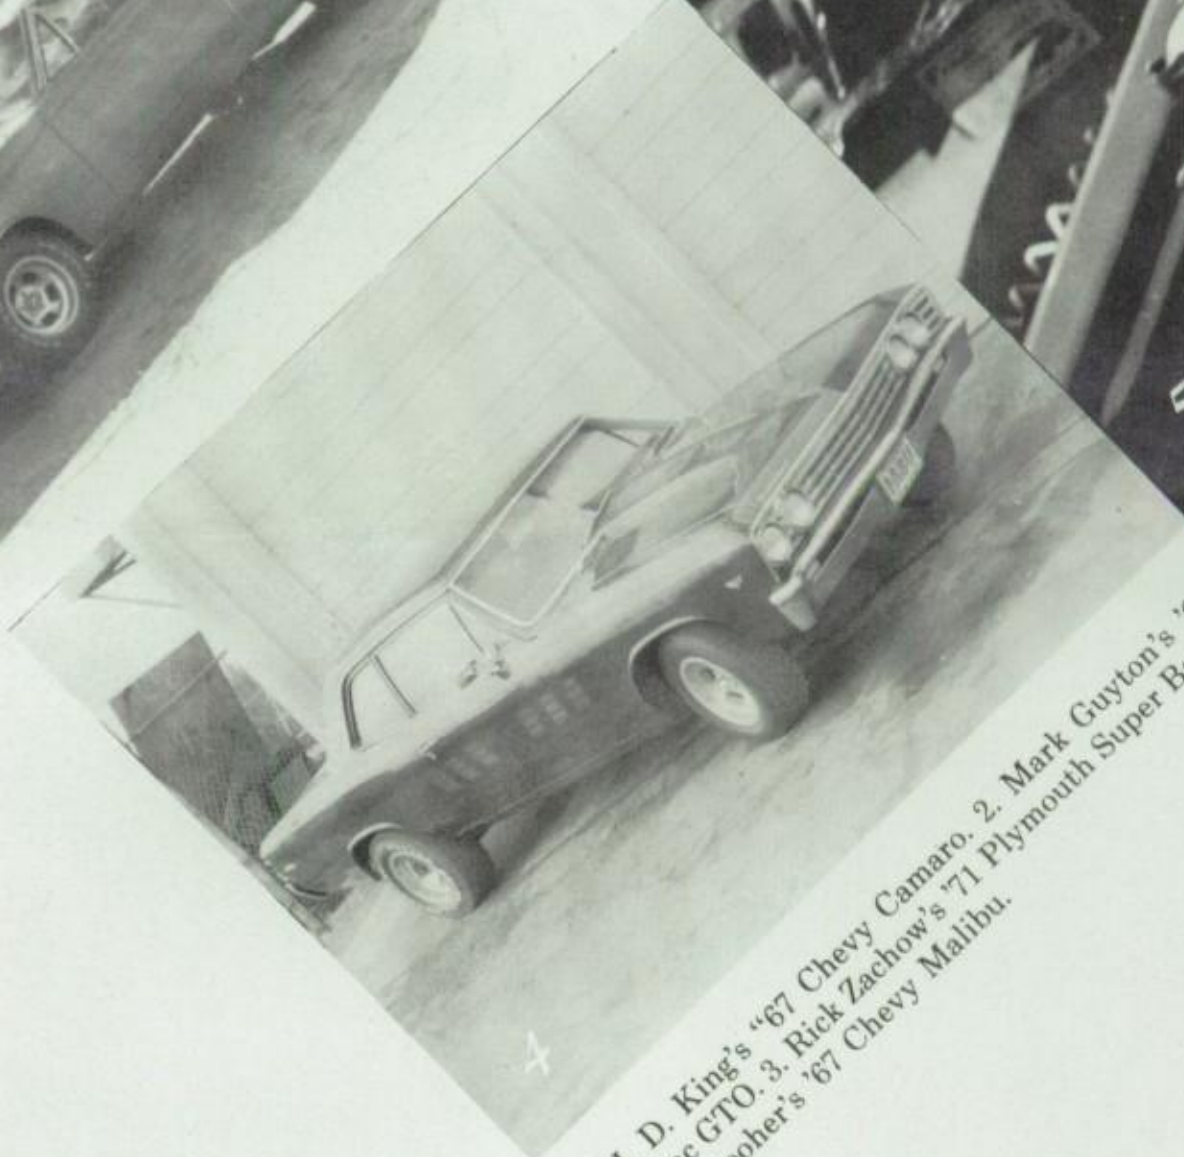

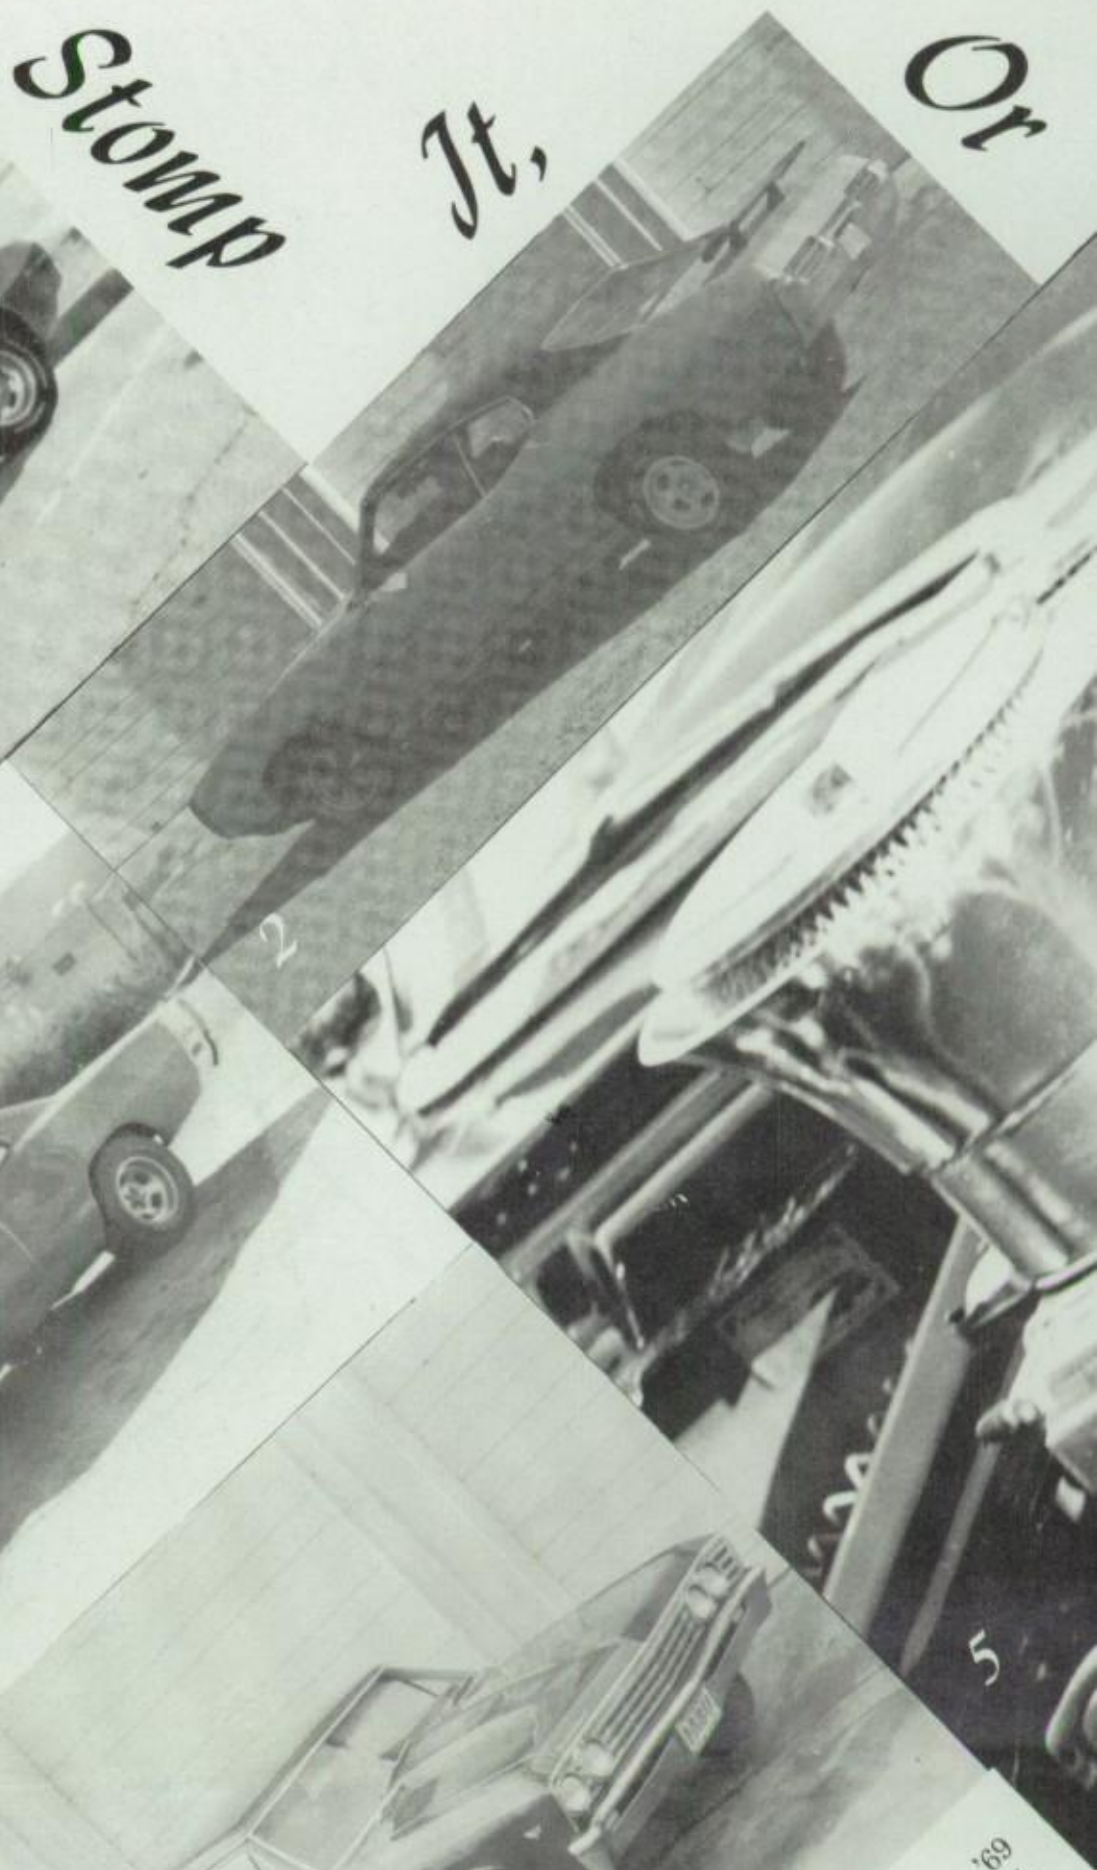

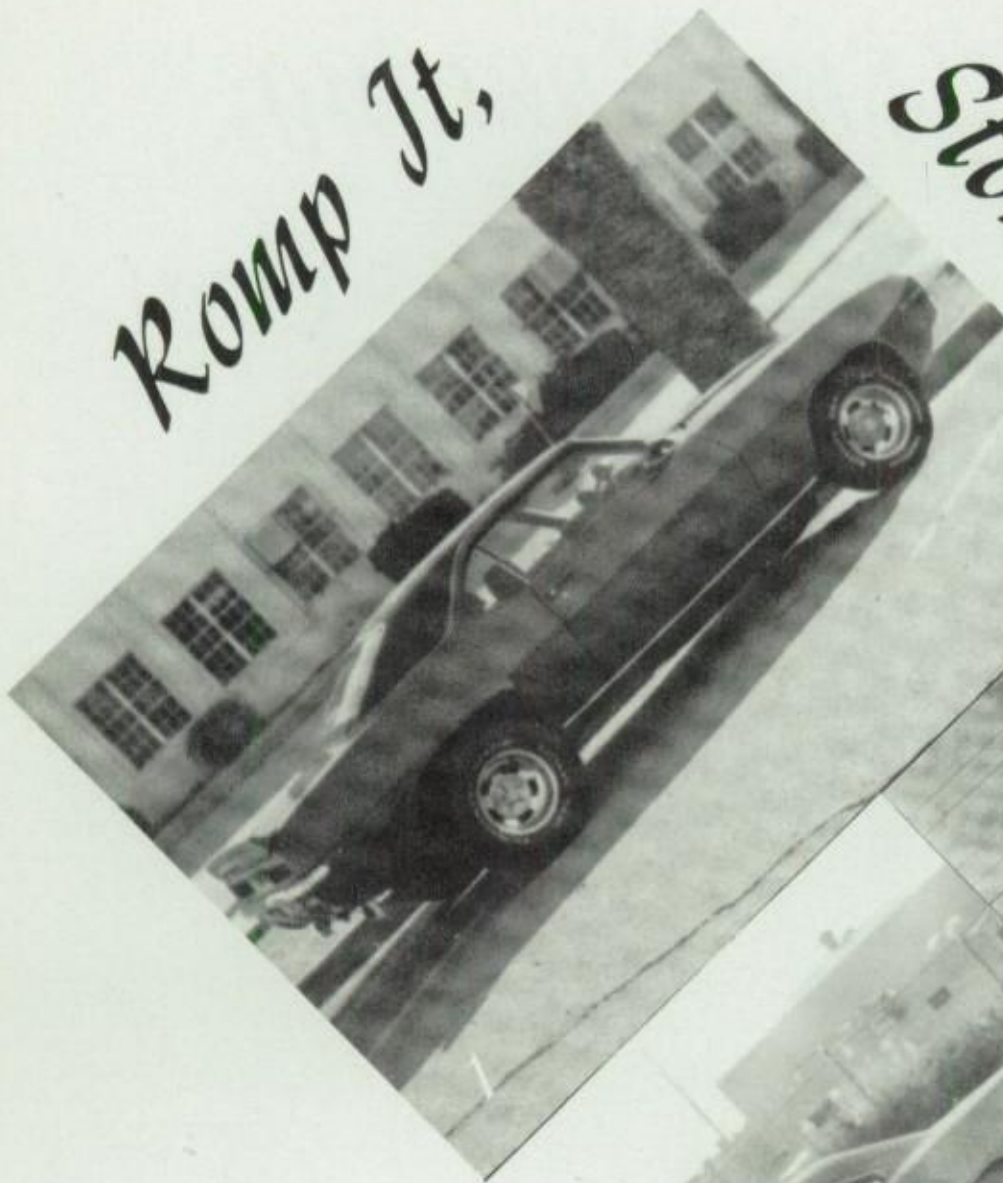

1. Ken Lambert examines one of the heads of a VW engine. 2. Mitchell Cates and Chuck Chitwood adjust the machine for usage. 3. Garry Watkins cleans a part for an engine in the sandblaster. 4. John Butler adjusts a dual port manifold on a newly built engine while Mr. Adair observes. 5. Ken Sergio adjusts the distributor on his friends new 318 engine in his Barracuda. 6. Clint Hoffman listens to Mr. Freeman Stewart explaining the setting of equipment. (Photos: Steve Conn)

Students Learn Personal And

Vocational Skills

1. Chris Vrizuella puts the finishing touches on her cake. 2. Peter Gonzales isn't really trying to stab the donuts, he's making sure they fall into the oil properly. The bakery is located at Franklin School. 3. Jean McClure tries to ignore the camera while Janice Weatherall poses. They are making chili for the lunch entre' in the restaurant. 4. Dianna Danson sets the tables before the customers arrive. 5. Nadine Ybarra cheerfully makes the coffee. 6. Home Economics is more than baking cookies and sewing an outfit. Mrs. Lillian Weber's needle trades class has mended parachutes, made costumes for community groups and made giant stuffed animals. They have crafted various items to sell at the open house. She also has a service trades class which deals with grooming, child care, cosmetology and an introduction to foods and sewing. Mrs. Jean Engle teaches a nurses aid and orderly class. The restaurant and catering class is taught by Ms. Mary Ann Griffith and Ms. Linda Heller. They have catered a breakfast at South Mountain Park and several luncheons for various clubs. They also operate Central Cuisine 3 days a week.

Playground

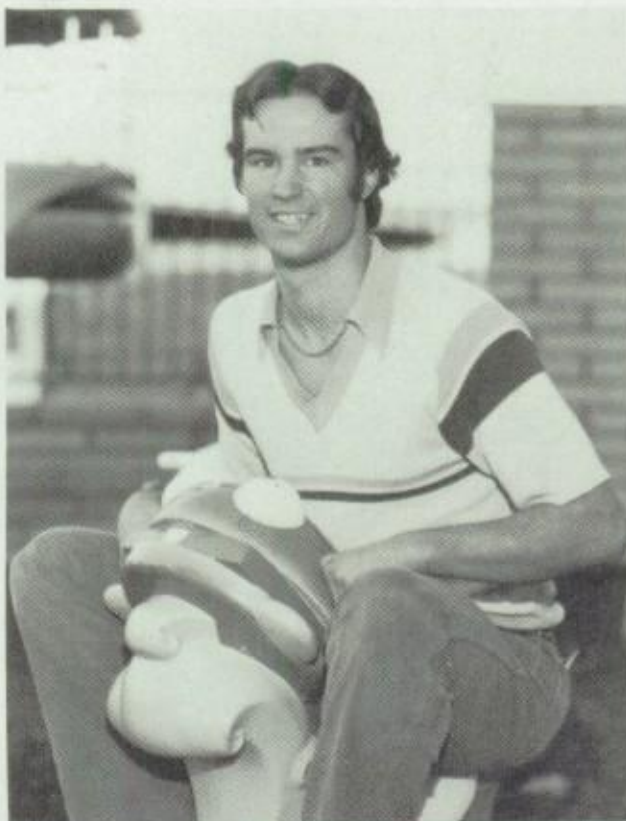

Students of the month are chosen each month for at least one of the four clubs who honor high school students. Students are nominated by teachers and selected by a faculty committee. The Elks, Downtown Rotary and Baseline Rotary Clubs honor seniors while the Optimist Club honors underclassmen. In order for a student to be chosen for these honors a student must meet several of the following criteria—depending on the club involved:

1) have above average grades, 2) be involved in a vocational program, 3) participate in extracurricular activities, 4) show marked improvement over the year before.

To The Class Of '82

This special page is dedicated to all the Juniors of Mesa Central Vocational Technical Center. It is for those who will be Seniors next year, and won't have a Yearbook to preserve the memories of 1981-82. They will have to reminicse without the aid of photos and autographs. Once the school is "parttime only", and strictly vocational, students will have to get Yearbooks from their home schools. The Class of '82 got caught in the middle of the transition. The budget just won't allow the extra expenditure, for just a few. As we, the Yearbook staff, join the staffs of other schools or become ordinary students again, we'll remember those of you in '82. 1. Ella Johnson, 2. Amy Litke, 3. Diane Freeman, 4. Kathy Navarro and Kris Gutierrez, 5. Barbara Nelson, 6. Jeff Guyton, 7. Buddy Pester, 8. Melody Holbrook.
